TIME AND LOVE---AN ALLEGORY

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

Old Time and young Love, one morning in May,
Chanced to meet by a river in halcyon weather,
And agreeing, for once ('tis a fable, you'll say),
In the same little boat made a voyage together.

Strong, steady and patient, Time pulled at his oar,
And swift o'er the waters the voyagers go;
But Love—who was thinking of Pleasure on shore—
Complained that his boatman was wretchedly slow.

But Time, the old sailor, expert at his trade,
And knowing the leagues that remained to be done,
Content with the regular speed that he made,
Tugged away at his oar and kept steadily on,

Love, always impatient of doubt or delay,
Now sighed for the aid of the favoring gales,
And scolded at Time in the sauciest way,
For not having furnished the shallop with sails.

But Time, as serene as a calendar saint,
(Whatever the graybeard was thinking upon),
All deaf to the voice of the yonker's complaint,
Tugged away at his oar and kept steadily on.

Love, vexed at the heart, only clamored the more;
And cried "By the gods! in what country or clime
Was ever a lubber who handled the oar
In so lazy a fashion as old Father Time?"

But Time only smiled in a cynical way,
('Tis often the way with your elderly Don)
And one who knows more than he cares to display—
And still at his oar pulled steadily on.

Grown calmer, at last the exuberant boy
Enlivens the minutes with snatches of rhyme
The voyage at length, he begins to enjoy,
And soon has forgotten the presence of Time.

But Time, the severe, egotistical elf,
Since the day that his travels he entered upon,
Has ne'er for a moment forgotten himself,
But tugs at his oar and keeps steadily on.

Awaking once more, Love sees with a sigh
That the river of Life will be presently passed,
And now he breaks forth with a piteous cry,
"O Time, gentle Time! your are rowing too fast!"

But Time, well knowing that Love will be dead,
Dead—dead! in the boat!—ere the voyage is done;
Only give him an ominous shake of the head,
While he tugs at his oar and keeps steadily on!

'Tis True that Fate's Unsparing Hand.

BY W. HOWARD PERRIGO.

'Tis true that fate's unsparing hand
May doom the hopes to blight
That in the happy days of yore
Twined round the heart all bright;
'Tis true that time may deeply trace
Its lines upon the brow,
Bleach the once raven locks to white,
And bid the form to bow;
But, oh, the heart can ne'er grow old,
No changes can it know,
It throbbeth still with love as warm
As in the long ago.

The fame we courted in our youth
May loose its quickening spell,
The laurel wreath may lose its power
To cause the heart to swell;
Each sunny dream, each cherished hope,
May fade before time's dart
But vain is time, with all its blight,
To change the loving heart;
For the heart that once has truly loved,
Will love when life is o'er
And with affection still more pure
Love on a brighter shore.

MARRIAGE IN HIGH LIFE, and one that beats that of Senator Sprague and Miss Kate Chase, higher than a kite. On Christmas Eve, the beautiful princess, daughter of the celebrated chief of the Nez Perces, Lawyer, was led to the hymenial altar, clothed in blushes of modesty and superbly worked leggings, all covered with precious gems or other kinds of beads. The happy bridegroom is a nephew of the well known Tree-Fathers, a sub-chief of the royal nation. Many a white man felt a chill at the heart at seeing this beautiful and royal damsel led to the altar, to become the loved bride of one of the bravest of the brave. We cannot give an accurate description of the splendid dress worn on the occasion by the princess. Suffice it to say, that the leggings, were of brilliant hue; her shawl of matchless figure and value, and more—she wore no hoops—but allowed her own development of form to fill the outlines where others less perfect have to depend on hoops and cotton Her petticoats and tunic set very gracefully, and over her shoulders waved the beautiful locks of hair which graced her head. Of the groom we can only say he was dressed with taste, and, all in all, this was one of the most superb affairs ever seen, and as they retired to their soft couch of costly furs, we had to leave and consequently can only say they each had an armful of joy. —Lewiston Age.

GRECIAN MYTHOLOGY.

THE RURAL DEITIES.

Pan, the god who presided over the country, was, according to the most ancient account, the son of Mercury by an Arcadian nymph, the daughter of Dryops. Others say, that as Penelope, who was afterwards married to Ulysses, was tending, in her youth, her father's flocks on Mount Taygetus, Mercury, taking the form of a goat, gained her love, and she became the mother of this god of herdsmen.

Pan had goat's feet and a shaggy skin: he had also goat's horns, with a wrinkled face, a matted beard and a flat nose. It is said that when he was born, the nurse on beholding him fled away in affright; but Mercury, wrapping him up in a hare-skin, carried him to Olympus, where all the gods were delighted with him.

Deficient as he was in beauty, Pan was not without his love-adventures. He gained the affection of Selena, the beautiful goddess of the night, under the form of a white ram. Another of his loves was his nymph Echo, whose adventure with Narcissus shall presently be narrated. The nymph Pitys also listened to his love; and Boreas, the god of the north wind, who was his rival, blew the nymph down from a rock and killed her. Pan, unable to save, changed her into a Pine-tree—in Greek, Pitys.

As the nymph Syrinx was one day returning from the chase, she passed by Mount Lyceum. Pan happening to see her, fell in love with her. The nymph fled from him; he pursued her till she found her course impeded by the river Ladon. She implored the aid of her sister-nymphs; and when Pan thought to seize her, he found his arms filled with reeds into which she had been changed. He stood sighing at his disappointment, when the wind agitating the reeds, they made a low musical sound. Pan, taking the hint, cut seven of them, from which he made the instrument called Syrinx, or Pandean pipes.

Pan was author of what are called Panic terrors. In this way he aided the Athenians at Marathon, and terrified the Gauls when they were approaching to plunder the temple of Delphi.

Arcadia was the country in which Pan was most honored.

Silenus, a rural deity, was said to be the foster-father of Bacchus, whom he usually accompanied, riding on a broad-backed ass. He was generally intoxicated, and was rarely seen without his can (cantharus) in his hand.

Silenus was noted for his wisdom. We find him in Virgil lecturing very learnedly on the origin of the world. One of his sayings has been preserved. Being asked, we are told, what was best for man,—after musing some time, he replied, "It is best never to be born; next to that, to die quickly."

Some Phrygian shepherds once found Silenus in one of his drunken fits, and brought him to king Midas, who kept him for ten days, and then restored him to Bacchus. The god desired Midas to ask a reward: the king, like many other fools, thinking there was nothing like money, requested that whatever he touched might be turned to gold. The gift was bestowed. Midas laid his hand on a stone, it became a mass of gold; he touched the ears of corn, they waved in golden lustre; he washed his hands, the water became like the shower of gold in which Jupiter descended into the bosom of Danae. Midas was in raptures. But Midas sat down to eat, and his teeth could not penetrate the golden bread: fish, flesh, and fowl,—all was gold. He mingled some wine and water, it became pure aurum potabile, and would not discharge the vulgar office of quenching the thirst. In despair, he turned him to the god, acknowledging his error, and prayed to be relieved from the ruinous gift. Bacchus took pity, and directed him to bathe in the river Pactolus. He bathed, and lost the power of making gold: the river began to roll over golden sands.

The Satyrs were another part of the retinue of Bacchus. They were conceived to be bald, with short horns like those of kids, and goat-footed. They were of a lively frolicsome disposition.

Priapus was the god who presided over gardens. He was said to be the son of Bacchus and Venus. Lampascus, on the Hellespont, was the chief seat of his worship. He usually bore a sickle and a horn of plenty.

THE THIN PARTITION BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH.—When we walk near the powerful machinery we know that one single mis-step and those mighty engines would tear us to ribbons with their flying wheels, or grind us to powder in their monstrous jaws. So, when we are thundering across the land in the rail-car, and there is nothing but a half an inch of iron flange to hold us upon the track. So, when we are at sea in a ship, and there is nothing but a plank between us and eternity. We imagine we see how close we are to the edge of a precipice. But we do not see it.—Whether on the sea or on the land the partition which divides us from eternity is something thinner than an oak plank or half an inch of iron flange. The machinery of life and death are within us. The issues that hold these beating powers in their places are often not thicker than a sheet of paper, and if that partition were pierced or ruptured it would be just the same with us if a cannon-ball had struck us. Death is inseparably bound up with life in the very structure of our bodies. Struggle as he will to widen the space, no man can at any time go further from death than the thickness of a sheet of paper.

BOISE.

MR. EDITOR,

The name of our county and mines is pronounced and written in various ways; but of course there is but one correct way. The proper manner of spelling is Boi-se', with an accent mark over the e, being divided into two syllables and pronounced as if written Boy-zay, the accent being on the last syllable. It is a French adjective, signifying woody, or wooded. Bois is the French noun for Wood, and by adding e' it forms the adjective Boise', In French, de, with the noun following, is often used instead of the adjective: hence, instead of Boise Riviere, (Woody River,) it is just as correct to write Riviere de Boise, (River of Wood.) The old maps have it written Boise. We should continue to spell and pronounce it as in French, and thereby preserve the true signification of the word.

HEALTH HINTS.—The following article from Dr. Hall's Journal of Health, contains practical hints on various subjects that are worthy attention:

1. It is unwise to change to cooler clothing except when you first get up in the morning.
2. Never ride with your arm or elbow outside any vehicle.
3. The man who attempts to alight from a steam-car while in motion, is a fool.
4. In stepping from any wheeled vehicle while in motion, let it be from the rear, and not in front of the wheels; for then, if you fall the wheels cannot run over you.
5. Never attempt to cross a road or street in a hurry, in front of a passing vehicle; for if you should stumble or slip, you will be run over. Make up the half minute lost by waiting until the vehicle has passed, by increased diligence in some other direction.
6. It is miserable economy to save time by robbing yourself of necessary sleep.
7. If you find yourself inclined to wake up at a regular hour of the night and remain awake, you can break up the habit in three days, by getting up as soon as you wake, and not going to sleep again until your usual hour for retiring; or retire two hours later and rise two hours earlier for three days in succession—not sleeping a moment in the day-time.
8. If infants and young children are inclined to be wakeful in the night, or very early in the morning, put them to bed later; and besides, arrange that their day nap shall be in the forenoon.
9. "Order is heaven's first law;" regularity is nature's great rule; hence regularity in eating, sleeping, and exercise, has a very large share in securing a long and healthful life.
10. If you are caught in a drenching rain, or fall in the water, by all means keep in motion sufficiently vigorous to prevent the slightest chilly sensation until you reach the house; then change your clothing with great rapidity before a blazing fire, and drink instantly a pint of some hot liquid.
11. To allow clothing to dry upon you, unless by keeping vigorous exercise until thoroughly dried, is suicidal.
12. If you are conscious of being in a passion, keep your mouth shut, for words increase it. Many a person has dropped dead in a rage.
13. If a person "faints," place him on his back and let him alone; he wants arterial blood to the head; and it is easier for the heart to throw it there in a horizontal line than perpendicularly.
14. If you want to get instantly rid of a beastly surfeit, put your finger down your throat until free vomiting ensues, and eat nothing for ten hours.
15. Feel a noble pride in living within your means, then you will not be hustled off to a cheerless hospital in your last sickness.

BENEFIT OF FEMALE SOCIETY.—It is better for you to pass an evening once or twice in a lady's drawing-room, even though the long conversation be slow, and you know the songs by heart, than in a club, tavern or pit of a theater. All amusements of youth to which virtuous women are not admitted, are deleterious in their nature. All men who avoid female society have dull perceptions, and are stupid, or have gross tastes and revolt against what is pure. Your club swaggerers, who are sucking billiard cues all night, declare female society insipid. Poetry is insipid to a yokel; beauty has no charms for a blind man; music does not please a poor beast who does not know one tune from another; and as a true epicure is never tired of water sanchy and brown bread and butter, I protest I can sit for a whole night talking to a well regulated, kindly woman, about her girl coming out or her boy at school, and like the evening's entertainment. One of the greatest benefits a man may derive from woman's society is, that he is bound to be respectful to them. The habit is of good to your moral men, depend upon it. Our education makes us the most eminently selfish men in the world.

We fight for ourselves, we perish for ourselves, we yawn for ourselves, we light our pipes, and say we go out, we prefer ourselves and our ease and the greatest good that comes to man from a woman's society is, that he has to think of somebody besides himself—somebody to whom he is bound to be constantly attentive and respectful.

Boise News.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1864.

HOLLAND, HOWARD & Co. intend putting in a bed-rock flume from the reservoir on Bear run, to Elk creek, having located and recorded a right to do so.

IN 1842 the total population of San Francisco was 176. In 1860 it amounted to 56,802, making in 18 years, a gain of 56,626 souls.

BALL.—Great preparations are being made at Centerville to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Washington, with a grand ball. Many of the best citizens of that place are engaging in it. We hope they may have a pleasant time, as they doubtless will.

THE Esmeralda Star has up the names of the following gentlemen as candidates of its choice, at the approaching election in the new State of Nevada: Governor, John A. Collins: U. S. Senator, Henry Edgerton; Congress,—J. Neely Johnson.

T. C. CAUFMAN, charged with the murder of Joseph C. Deady—brother of Judge Deady of Oregon—at Diamond Springs, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree, at Placerville, Cal., and sentenced to be hung.

HIT AT THE TIMES.—Mr. J. L. Allison informs us that his new local play—"A Hit at the Times"—is now ready, and will be produced in a short time at the Idaho Theater. The play is full of local history, and cannot fail to interest an audience, The principal features will be published in circular form early next week.

NEARLY COMPLETED.—The Bledsoe ditch, on Grimes' creek, is said to be almost completed. This ditch, with a capacity of 1000 inches, will command a very large district—some seven or eight mi.es—of our richest placer mines. The miners along its entire course are putting everything in readiness for the Spring harvest, which will come as soon as the snow begins to melt.

BADLY CUT.—A man by the name of Rose, while engaged in chopping wood on Monday evening, on Moore's creek, directly opposite Buena Vista Bar, made a miss lick and cut one of his feet almost entirely off, the ax entering near the root of the little toe and ranging towards the instep, severing all the bones of the foot until it reached that of the great toe. Whether it was found necessary to remove the foot, or ascertained by the surgeons that it could be saved and caused to grow on again, we have hot learned.

THE CAPITAL.—Private advices from Lewiston by last express state that, a very decided majority of members of the House were in favor of removing the Seat of Government to Bannock City, while the Council were divided three and three, and one man on the fence who had not decided which way he should vote. The wavering member doubtless only required a little time to collect his thoughts when, as a reasonable man, he must have recognized the justice of locating the capital among the people and where their conveniences and necessities must eventually take it. So that by this time, in all human probability, Bannock City is the Capital City of Idaho according to the laws thereof.

THIEVES ABOUT.—Mr. Patterson of the Salt Lake Express, scared up a fellow on Tuesday night, who was endeavoring to strip a clothes-line in the rear of the express-office. The thief fled, and Mr. P. followed him up so closely as to knock him down once, after which he drove him up town to where there was a light, and several parties took a look at him. As he appeared to be a stranger in these parts, and already pretty severely punished, he was permitted to depart with the admonition, "go thy way and sin no more." On his return Mr. Patterson discovered another scamp helping himself from the same line. Forbearance ceasing to be a virtue, he drew his revolver and fired, but the rascal made good his escape by dint of clean running, and on consultation it was decided safest to take in the clothes.

ANGELS' VISITS.—The angels we invoked have come at our call—no fledgling cherubs, real spirits of light, with "rosy wings and wounding eyes." We fall conquered and palpitating like a partridge, caught in the fowler's snare. All day our dreams are of holy bowers, angelic orisons, nectar and ambrosia; and when resigned to Morpheus in the realms of Kimmeria, visions float continually before us with butterfly wings, tinged with the tints of the Iris, passing ever and anon in and out at the transparent gate, shunning the deceitful ivory, and caroling sweeter strains than mortal ears have ever heard. If the reader is not satisfied with the above lucid exposition, we will state explicitly that young ladies have visited our office during the week, and we're a gone sucker—that's what's the matter.

SHOOTING AT PLACERVILLE.—Sometime during the afternoon of Saturday last, the people of Placerville were startled by the firing of pistols in the Plaza by Frank Britten and T. Holbrook. No threats or loud talk had preceded the beginning of hostilities, and so quietly had they commenced, that it was hard to persuade spectators that they were in earnest. Holbrook fired five times, and Britten six. Three of Britten's shots took effect on Holbrook's person, and one hit his clothes. Britten was untouched. The first two wounds received by Holbrook were in his legs, both passing through, inflicting flesh wounds merely. The last shot struck him behind the ear, passing between the cords of the neck and the bone, and coming out on the opposite side. His wounds are said to be doing well, and hopes are entertained of a speedy recovery. We shall not attempt a narration of particulars this week, but prefer rather to wait for the testimony taken before the examining magistrate—T. H. Stringham, Esq.—who has consented to furnish us a copy for publication in our next issue. We should state however that both parties were promptly arrested by Deputy-Sheriff Underwood, who happened to be in Placerville at the time.—They both as promptly gave bonds conditioned for their appearance before his Honor for examination, and so the matter rested at last accounts. Mr. Holbrook is said by those who know him, to be a very quiet peaceable man, and not disposed to be quarrelsome; and we know from an acquaintance with Frank Britten extending through a period of nearly twelve years, that he has always been regarded as good humored and agreeable.—The climate must have the effect to set men to shooting that never shot before, on the same principle that men, women and children are said to be seized with an uncontrollable inclination to steal horses after inhaling the atmosphere of the Dalles for a few months,—however honest they may have previously been. We know of a judicial officer who admits having such a hankering after horse-flesh after a month's residence in that locality, that he was obliged to leave in order to place himself beyond the influence of the contagion.

PROCEEDINGS IN JUSTICE'S COURT.—T. H. STRINGHAM, JUSTICE, PLACERVILLE.—We have heretofore noticed a shooting bout that occurred between E. H. Richardson and N. F. Brown, on Christmas day in Placerville, and our readers are aware also of the fact that Richardson, the assailant, has ever since been in so critical a state of health that it was not thought proper to go into an examination of his conduct. Having sufficiently recovered however, on Thursday last week, to warrant his removal, he was taken before his Honor and bound over in the sum of $2000—conditioned for his appearance at the District Court—in default of which he was brought over on Tuesday and lodged in the county jail until next morning, when he gave bonds and was released. Brown was required to recogn'ze in the sum of $1000 for his attendance as a witness. The testimony elicited the following state of facts: Richardson went into Brown's butcher-shop, passed through into the office, and fired three times at B., who attempted to escape, but struck his foot against the door-sill and fell, R. firing once while he was down. Brown 'rose to his feet and commenced firing at his assailant, wounding him in both arms, from the effects of which the prisoner has been confined to his room ever since. Brown received one shot in his thigh, a ball passed through his hat and another through his coat collar.

FROM TRAGEDY TO POLITICS.—Mr. James Stark the tragedian, whom a majority of our readers have seen and heard in Richard the Third, The Hunch-back, Othello, The Stranger, or some one or more of his long role of characters, has quit the Stage, and like Warwick, taken to politics. As a member of the Nevada Constitutional Convention, he has acquired quite a reputation as a debater and proven himself a character which he sustains as naturally and with all the life and fervor that was his wont in representing imaginary heroes. In his speech on the treason clause of the Nevada Constitution, the following passages occur:

"Treason is a crime of such awful magnitude that there is no punishment on earth adequate to it. 'Tis like the sin against the Holy Ghost, the unpardonable crime. Are we to offer up as a holocaust, the blood, the tears, the anguish and despair of thousands upon thousands to the god of secession? Are we to give the boasting criminal, gory with innocent blood—flushed with the infamy of his hellish exploits of murder, arson and ravishment, one whose perjured conscience is seared by the blasting oath of secession—an equal share in our dearest rights? God forbid that such a time and state of things should come upon us: that we should be overcome and voted down by rebels. The nations of the earth would stand amazed at such a spectacle—such a voluntary surrender of our liberty! The angels of Heaven would weep, and the spirits of the righteous dead join in one universal wail of woe, crying farewell to human liberty. Farewell to man's idea of self-government. Ye learned in vain the lessons of the past, and ye are slaves forever.'

LEGISLATIVE REPORTS.—If members of the Legislative Assembly of Idaho had taxed their ingenuity to the uttermost in maturing a plan to hide and cover up their tracks and keep the public in the dark with regard to their proceedings, they could not have fallen upon a more effective expedient than that adopted by the Golden Age in reporting bills by number instead of title. For all the reader has any means of knowing—without a file of back numbers always at hand, and spare time to hunt an hour or two for the H. Bs., the C. Bs., C. J. Rs., &c.—they might as well be written in Chinese characters. Who knows but some one of their H. J. Rs. or C. J. Rs. may be an ordinance of secession, or something equally as dreadful? We venture the assertion that neither the reporter who wrote the reports, nor any member of the legislature can read them intelligibly without the aid of some sort of analytical key by which to solve the puzzle. The fact is, the whole of the reports thus far are a nuisance and a humbug, and the person who invented the system of reporting bills, &c., by number, ought to be sent to Stockton and exchanged for Scranton, who no doubt—crazy as he is—would hardly attempt to palm on a reading people such an enigma and riddle as the one we have been attempting to decipher for the past two days, with the hope of ascertaining what has been done by the legislature.

QUARTZ LITIGATION.—In the quartz suit referred to as occupying a considerable portion of the attention of the Probate Court last week, we learned the following particulars: The case is noticeable not less because of its magnitude, involving as it does the title to property now worth over $150,000, than as being the pioneer case of the kind in Boise county. The action was originally tried in Justice's Court, before J. L. McGownd in August last, and being brought by D. Miller and others against Averill and others for an alleged forcible entry upon and detainer of eight quartz mining claims upon the Idaho (South Boise) ledge. In that Court, Swift & Miller acting as attorneys for plaintiffs, and E. D. Holbrook and Frank Miller for the defendants; the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs. The council for defendants, after being denied a new trial in the same court, removed the case by certiorari to the Probate Court where it was heard last week, and after argument by counsel—J. K. Shafer, E. D. Holbrook, Frank Miller and John Gray appearing for defendants, and C. B. Waite for the plaintiffs—the Court reversed the judgment of the Court below. The Counsel for plaintiffs then gave notice of an appeal to the Dist. Court, and there the matter ends for the present.

PROBATE COURT PROCEEDINGS.—On Monday, Jan. 25th, a session of the Probate Court—Daniel McLaughlin, Judge, and C. Dana Sayers, Clerk—was begun and held at the Idaho Theater in this city.

The case of Suttle vs. Kilgour et. al., involving quartz questions, ownership of the Ada Elmore lode, &c, will be found reported in another place.

Quivey vs. Graham, dismissed and appealed to Dist. Court.

The case of Young et. al. vs. Allison, restraining order made perpetual.

G. W. Van Winkle vs. McLaughlin & Witt—Jury found Defts. not guilty of forcible entry and detainer, as charged in complaint. This case involved the right of defendants to enter upon and hold a bar claim, covered by plaintiff's ditch, which plaintiff contended was represented by work done on said ditch.

Pervine vs. Long certified to Dist. Court.

Alderson vs. Riggs; judgment for plaintiff.

A large amount of business, all of a civil character, was disposed of during the term—interesting only to those concerned in the respective suits.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Bannock and Buena Vista are gradually reaching out towards each other, and will soon be able to join hands across Elk creek, and become—not one flesh but—one city. The improvements of L. H. Barber, along the margin and across the bar of the creek, are adding much to the appearance of that part of the town. A house 205 feet front is about being built on the north side of Wall street, on a portion of the bar that has been worked out, which when completed will be the largest building in the Territory. The center portion will be fitted up for a first-class hotel, and the balance for stores, saloons, &c., &c. The large and commodious store on the corner of Wall and State streets, now being finished for rent, is in an eligible position for business.

OPHIR LODE.—We are indebted to Mr. Hubbell for the following item: With a small arastra, which was set in operation late last Fall, the company working the Ophir at South Boise have been experimenting, and out of 10 days' run cleaned up one thousand dollars in gold. This is undoubtedly one of the richest gold bearing ledges in the country. Preparations are in progress for erecting a large arastra, to be propelled by water-power, in the Spring when, of course, it will be a good paying institution. Claims now readily command $25 per foot, and going up.

Visit of the Sliding Club of Bannock to Centerville and Placerville.

We have been furnished notes of the late visit of the Sliding-Club boys of this city to our neighboring towns, and regret a want of space to do justice to the subject. In the first place, we are requested to extend thanks to the respective Clubs at Centerville and Placer, for their kind reception and friendly greeting—and to the citizens of those places generally for their boundless hospitality.

The Club left Bannock on Tuesday morning in one large sleigh, having in tow a whole fleet of smaller craft, elegantly painted with the name of each plainly registered on its side—the whole cavalcade being led by Mr. Wallace in a small cutter drawn by his two large New-Foundland dogs. About 11 o'clock the procession entered Centerville in triumphal style, and on invitation of Mr. Johnson,—President of the Centerville Club,—dined at the Orleans Restaurant. After an hour or two spent on the Centerville Coast in trials of speed, &c., the two Clubs joined and proceeded to Placerville, preceded by the dogs; and their numbers now being increased, their entrance into Placerville was even more imposing than that into the former city. Here they were met and kindly welcomed by Capt. Bledsoe—Pres't. of the C. C B B.—and invited to dine at the International Hotel the following day.

On Wednesday morning an outsider made a race on the far-famed Flying-Cloud of Placerville, against the Wide-West of Bannock, for a wager of $50, to run 3 in 5. By some misunderstanding, one of the Judges left his post—the West declared winner by the remaining Judge. Three more heats were run—the West winning two and the Cloud one; the Bannock Club claimed the race and money, but it was denied on account of the absence of the Judge, and the stakes were drawn.

At one o'clock they all dined together in pursuance of the invitation of the of the Placerville Cub, at the International. After dinner, having during the day indulged in sliding to their hearts' content, they separated—the Bannocks having decided to accept an invitation from the citizens of Centerville, to remain one night in their city, slide on their coast, and attend a ball in the evening. Soon after their arrival in Centerville, a delegation from Placerville made their appearance with the Flying-Cloud, and offered to run her against the Wide-West on the Centerville Coast—one sled against the other. The track was illuminated along its entire length all night, and men were employed to smooth and sweep it so as to keep it in the very best of order. Coasting was kept up until 8 o'clock, Eli Bostick in the mean-time being thrown from a sled and badly hurt about the head and face. A committee from the Centerville Quadrille Club announced that the time had arrived for the dancing to begin, and all hands adjourned to the ball where, it is needless to say, everybody enjoyed themselves.

On Tuesday morning the race was made—the Coast being fairly lined with sleds of all descriptions. One called the French Frigate being particularly worthy of notice, as the fastest in the Basin, and capable of carrying 20 persons. About eight o'clock the Wide-West and Flying-Cloud came out to run 2in 3, sled against sled. The Cloud was piloted by H. Bixby of Placerville, and the West by Wm. Mullaly of Bannock. The West got 20 feet the start, and was beaten 5 feet;—bets freely offered two to one on the Cloud, with but few takers. Second heat, Cloud got 20 feet the start, the West closing on her slowly until half way down the track, when she shot by like an arrow, and won the heat by 55 ft.—no more two to one betters. The Third heat was won by the West by several feet, and the race decided in her favor.

After the punishment of the usual amount of tanglefoot, necessary and incident to such excitements, the Placervillains and Bannocks—considered the worst tribes in the mountains—took leave of their Centerville friends and dispersed, after listening to a few appropriate remarks by the Presidents of the Bannock and Centerville Clubs, and "the celebrated world-renowned great North-American Pie-Biting" tragedian, on behalf of the C. C. B. B.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon they entered this city, singing "Lo, the Conquering Hero Comes,"—Mr. Mullaly sitting upon the W. West and bearing a broom, which, we are informed, signifies that she sweeps the Coast, and having in tow the veritable Flying-Cloud about which we have heard and read so much, brought off as a trophy.

Administrator's Notice.

ALL persons having claims against the estate of Oliver H. Mathematical.

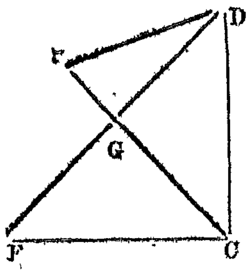
NEW PROBLEM.

Two men, A and B, start from the same point C A travels north 25 miles, to D. B travels 25 miles north-east, to E. How far apart are A and B in a direct line?

SOLUTION.



CD and CF given to find DF, one half of this will be DG; we shall then have:

CD and DG given to find CG, which result taken from 25 will give EG; we shall then have:

DG and EG given to find the required distance between D and E, where A and B are. [CG and DG being at right-angles are evidently of the same length consequently the second statement is superfluous. Ed.]

A PUZZLE.

Use the nine significant figures in any possible form—once only—and let the result be just one hundred.

Ans.: Add 76, 15, 3, 4, equal 98 and 2 are 100.

A RULE TO FIND.

If we take any number, say 345 and multiply it by 9 we have 3105. Now if I mark out the 3 it will read 105, if the 1, 305, if the 5, 310—neither a 9 or 0 must be taken out, but either of the first eight. The rule to find is one by which we can find the unknown figure taken out—knowing the remaining.

Ans: Divide the number from which the figure has been taken by 9; subtract the remainder from 9 and the result will be the missing figure. [Or add the remaining figures together as units and if more than one figure still remain add as before until it results in one figure, which taken from 9 will give the one sought.] J. M. D.

Laraway Gulch, Jan. 24 1863:

A mathematical correspondent at Placerville sends us several problems, but as they are not accompanied with the necessary solutions, and one of them (the dog and rabbit) requiring a diagram to illustrate, which experience has taught us, is bothersome, we will have to lay them aside for future consideration, in fact we doubt the legitimacy of the question, being contingent upon the dog not stopping.

Elegant Extract.—The following eulogy is as just as the language is chaste and elegant:

"In our country, the highest man is not above the people, the humble is not below the people. If the rich may be said to have additional protection, they have not additional power. Nor does wealth here form a permanent distinction of families. Those who are wealthy to-day pass to the tomb, and their children divide their estates.—Property thus is divided quite as fast as it accumulates. No family can without its own exertions, stand erect for a long time, under our statute of descents and distribution and only true and legitimate law. It silently and quietly dissolves the mass heaped up by toil and diligence of a long life of enterprise and industry. Property is continually changing, like waves of the sea—one wave arises and is swallowed in the vast abyss, and is soon no more; another arises, and having reached its destined limits falls gently away, and is succeed by yet another, which in turn breaks and dies gently on the sea-shore. The richest man among us may be brought down to the lowest level; and the child with scarcely clothes enough to cover his nakedness, may rise to the highest office in our government; and the poor man, while he rocks his infant on his knees, may justly indulge the consolation that if he possesses talents and virtue, there is no office beyond the reach of his honorable ambition."

The crow was much frightened by the wind, which threatened to blow her nest down. The lark, seeing her distress, advised her to build on the ground for the future. The next day, an ox passing crushed the lark's nest and her eggs, nearly ready to hatch, were broken. Thus, no situation is clear of danger; but by the care of our heavenly Parent all may be preserved, the crow equally with the lark—the one on the lofty tree, the other on the earth; each building according to the design of the Wise Counselor.

Mr. Jas. M. Thurmond, Esq., formerly of this city, who is now in the Beaver Head country, writes to Mr. Jas. Hayes of this city and says: "The murder of Mr. Magruder and party has cast a gloom over the whole community. Many of his friends here are manifesting their respect for his memory by wearing the usual badge of mourning. Universal execration is felt against his murderers."—Age.

We never know the true value of friends. While they live, we are too sensitive of their faults; when we have lost them, we only see their virtues. So, however, ought it to be. When the perishable shrine has crumbled away, what can we see, except that which alone is imperishable?

Turpentine.—The Oroville Union says that this business bids fair to be quite an extensive one in Butte county. The citizens of Rock creek and Mud creek have held a meeting, organized a district and adopted laws for its government. An important article of their laws relates to the manner in which the trees shall be tapped so as to prevent the killing of the timber.

J. Lewis Shuck, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church, Sacramento, lately died at Barnwell Court House, South Carolina, in the 51st year of his age.

It is the current opinion among Idaho politicians that the capital of that Territory will be removed by the Legislature to Boise City, in Boise valley.—[Washington Statesman.

There are sixty suits pending in the San Francisco County Court against the Omnibus Railroad Company for overcharging passengers—taking six and a quarter or ten cents, where the law allows but five.

DUINS TU THE KAPPYTIL.

Lewiston, February, 1864.

Ed. News—The following is a revised and condensed copy of a private report, supposed to have been accidentally dropped by the "Gentlemanly Reporters for the Age," while on their way to the 3d House. It is the first from their pens deemed intelligible, hence its transmission to you:

"House.—Members met, and found that something must be did if nothing else ever was,—but what to do bothered them. They finally took something—they always knew what to take—and opened shop with the following

WHERE-AS AND RESOLVES:

Whereas, Things is workin',—therefore, be it Resolved, 1st, That we're some mush on a rag; 2d, That some things can be done as well as others; 3d, That what can't be cured must be endured—which is a pity; 4th, That we rest confidently in our ability as rustlers; 5th, in our capacity of stomach, and 6thly, in our fixed determination to go it.

COMMITTEES

were appointed, and things moved swimmingly. Joint resolution to separate the Siamese Twins, referred to committee on our foreign relations—who are on it. Memorial praying Congress to increase the amount of Greenbacks, signed by every member and referred to com. on federal relations. Bill to increase the number of graybacks for benefit of all hands, elicited some lively motions, and it was last moved and carried that it be scratched off the list after referring to com. on family relations. To prevent whites, negroes, chinamen, indians webfeet, kanakas and coyotes from running in the same hole—passed.

ROADS AND—TOLL-ROADS.

H. B. No. 1840, tabled; C. B. 1430, also; 1901 and 2700, ditto, likewise bills 11 and 8. [The bills just numbered as tabled, were on roads; all bills between these numbers, were on toll-roads, and passed.] The bill asking license to collect toll at Hell-Gate was bitterly objected to by the member from Bitter Root, as it was too much of a good thing for one man, who would finally be "froze out" by the Oregon Steam Navigation Co., and then there would be no show for either the living or dead. [Much applause from the Pit.]—This bill was referred to com. having power to grant licenses to sell Greek-fire whisky.—Bill for making Snake river navigable for the largest spurs from Lewiston to Hog'em, not in order, conseqently several bills for toll-roads passed.

THE MINES.

The bill to economize in use of water, by compelling the webfeet to wear gum-boots instead of going barefootted, and to eat their dried apples raw, went up the flume. Report of Com. on a peck of Salmon river dust—discovering indications of gold, strong solutions of black sand, and many sulphates of compost—referred to com. on agriculture and tailings. A packer's petition to limit the outfit of "an old Cal. prospector" (afoot), to three double blankets, sack flour, cwt. bacon bu. beans, pick, pan, shovel, coffee-pot, frying pan, gum-boots, &c., &c., rejected, and a bill to extend the prospector's privilege to a derrick and 32-stamp quartz-mill carried. Bill to confine young miners from webfoot to one spur and leggins, considered; also, the use of long-handled shovels by same. A petition praying that—if three sober members could be found—a committee be appointed to ascertain if water would run down hill where there wasn't any; petition referred to com. on dry diggins and empty glass-ware of the long necked kind. The member from Big-Hole introduced petition to procure a patent for rifled shafts and tunnels vice smooth-bored.—[He made a deep and unfathomable speech in defence of his posish, which was received with cries of "run into the ground," "what a bore," &c.] Petition referred to committee on the hole. Nota Bena.—A resolution to adopt a thorough system of beans, enforced its passage. Gov's message, 'nouncing his signature to act to incorporate "washed gravel" and "bedrock pitching," at Lewiston, received. As he could find nothing to incorporate but gravel, and as everything else looked to him to be "pitching," he concluded the bedrock was in the same fix.

MISCELLANEOUS.

H. B. No. 1 (toll-roads) laid on the table. Immediately thereafter a series of long-necked bottles, supposed to contain the oath of allegiance, were laid on the table. After which a motion was made to clear the table of empty (ink) bottles. Messrs. G., U., T., S., and others made forcible remarks on internal improvements, Squa(w)rza's P(a)unches, &c. The bill to establish a hospital at Lewiston for the reception of the Age-d insane, idiotic and other unfortunate old political bummers, was passed. The V. Wyck bill for illuminating Bannock has passed the (light)-House, and awaits the action of the com. on candle-wick and pine-knots. The act to remove the Capital to Bannock lacks 4-bits of passing; it is believed by Lewiston capitalists that the Capital will not be removed by any act of this session—hence, Lewiston stocks firm. [Good joke on Boise.—Ed. News.] The member from Stinking-Water made a sweet-scented capital speech in favor of splitting the Territory and letting Boise have the Seat of Gov. He concluded his say—not unmingled with sympathy for the once-promising town-site of Lewiston—by a reading from Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," for instance:

"The bats have built their nests; the owls have sung,
And the spiders have woven their webs in the wigwams of Nez Perce."

The Boise delegation moved to present the Stinking-Water member with a bottle full—of Cologne-water. Other motions were made by Lewiston members to remove the "cob-webs"—in a horn. Adjourned. All's quiet on the Clear-water.

The station does not honor the man, but the man should, by honesty of conduct, honor the station.

Poetry.

WAR TIME.

Oh my bird, my beautiful bird!
Sing no more to-day;
The saddest maiden under the sun
I must be, 'till this weary war is done;
For my lover has gone away.

Ah your voice could never drop as it does
Down through those slender bars;
If you had ever loved a soldier lad,
He was the only friend you had.
And was gone away to the wars,

You are quiet now! too quiet, my bird,
To suit my restless mood;
'Tis fearful to feel the house so still,
Sing out again till you sing your fill:
I shall die with solitude!

Yet low! sing low, while he is gone
To fight for the Stripes and Stars;
I would not hear your voice ring out
'Till it blends itself with the nation's shout
When my lover comes from the wars.

You must sing for us both in that blessed day
When I welcome my soldier boy;
For my eyes will be dim with the happy tear
And my heart will come to my lip so near,
That I cannot speak for joy!

THE BABY.

Another little wave,
Upon the sea of life;
Another soul to save,
Amid its toil and strife.

Two more little feet,
To walk the dusty road;
To choose where two paths meet,
The narrow and the broad.

Two more little hands,
To work for good or ill;
Two more little eyes,
Another little will.

Another heart to love,
Receiving love again;
And so the baby came,
A thing of joy and pain.

The Great Prize-Fight.

The London Times says the late prize-fight was a fair stand up one, and ended in a decisive victory for King. Heenan was badly punished: he had the advantage in the first rounds, but King had the most endurance.

Portland, Dec. 23.—The following is additional by the steamer "Jura": The choice of ground was won by Heenan. At exactly 10 o'clock on the morning of the 10th, the men were delivered at the scratch.

1st Round—Heenan closed in, grasping King by the neck and giving him an old-fashioned hug, until the referee entered the ring and strictly cautioned him not to repeat the operation.

2d Round—King forced the fighting as soon as he came to the scratch, and Heenan closed in again. After hugging King some time he threw him. In this round King drew the first blood.

3d Round—After hard exchanges Heenan again hugged King, and threw him on the ropes with awful violence. All was now going against King. The only thing in his favor was the first blood.

5th Round—King got in a tremendous blow on Heenan's ear and another on his temple, when the latter again hugged and threw King violently.

6th Round—Both pegged away at each other. This round ended by Heenan giving King another hug.

7th Round—King gave Heenan a rattler on the nose, drawing a stream of blood.

8th Round—Heenan was thrown.

9th Round—King struck Heenan a tremendous blow on the head; Heenan closed in him and threw him.

10th Round—King launched out heavily with both fists; closed in and was thrown by Heenan.

11th Round—Heenan began to tire at the close, but rushed in and threw King heavily.

The 12th, 13th, and 14th rounds had the same result. In the 15th round some swinging blows were given on both sides, when Heenan knocked King clear into the corner. This was the nicest knock-down of the fight.

16th Round—Heenan came to the scratch with a dreadful eye, and a severe struggle took place, neither side gaining any advantage, and the excitement had become so great that the ring regulations were disregarded. King's blows swelled Heenan's right eye and temples to a fearful extent. He bore it manfully. From this to the 24th and last round, King went ahead at a perfect gallop, and when the time was called for the 25th round, the sponge was thrown up by the seconds of Heenan. Heenan was dreadfully punished, and should never been permitted to pass the 21st round. King presented no visible marks of punishment, except a mouse on the left eye. This is from "Bell's Life," which concludes its description by saying that a braver contest was never fought.

IT is stated that a coal field of large extent has recently been found about 18 miles north of the newly discovered mines in the Desert District, in Nevada Territory.

EASTERN NEWS.

We glean the following from the Union and Bulletin of Dec. 26th and Jan. 2d, 9th and 16th, received by Friday night's express, 5th inst., too late for publication last week. The dates are up to Jan. 15th:

Joe Johnson assumed command of the rebel army at Dalton, Georgia, on Christmas day. 5000 Federal prisoners have been liberated at Richmond on Butler's plan of exchanging man for man, when the rebel authorities stopped and refused to proceed with the exchange on the ground that Butler had been declared an outlaw by Jeff Davis, and that it was therefore dishonorable to have any communication with him. Gilmore began on Christmas eve to throw shells into Charleston, and up to Christmas night, had landed 130 in the city, burning many buildings, and in the meantime gunboats engaged the rebel batteries at Stono. Gilmore's guns command Charleston, and its final capture is only a question of time. Chief Justice Roger B. Taney is reported to be at the point of death. The Army of the Potomac has made a slight advance, occupying Culpepper. Federal troops had made a raid as far as Harrisonsburg, and returned to Harper's Ferry without loss. On the 25th of Dec. Longstreet had gone into Winter-quarters about fifty miles east of Knoxville—the country being covered with snow. At a recent convention of emancipationists, held in New Orleans, to elect delegates to a convention of Southern emancipationists to be held at Louisville, Kentucky; the meeting was opened with prayer by a colored minister, and colored delegates admitted to seats in the convention.

The French are going to blockade Acapulco and San Blas. The London 'Times' compliments Grant for his success at Chattanooga. A shock of an earthquake was felt at San Francisco, on the 30th.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5.

Legislature organized to-day, Republican officers elected. The Governor's message says the only way to save the Union now, is to place a President and Cabinet in power on a peace platform.

Baltimore, 7th.

Gov. Bradford's message urges the emancipation of slaves as fast as the industrial interests with which the institution is interwoven will permit. He believes the people of the State, upon calm reflection, will agree with him that it is an evil to the State both morally and financially.

Chicago, Jan. 8th.

The belief that the Alabama is making her way to the Pacific coast, has aroused the War and Navy departments to our defenseless situation there. Two or three men-of-war will be sent to San Francisco with all dispatch possible, and Senator Conness has procured the assignment of a prominent and able Major-General to the Pacific Coast. The present Congress will increase the tax on whisky to 70 cents, and that on tobacco will be doubled. Grant will be promoted to Major-General in the Regular Army. Archbishop Hughes died in New York on Sunday 3d inst. He was buried on the 7th from St. Patrick's Cathedral. High mass celebrated by Bishop Timan of Buffalo, and Bishop McCloskey pronounced the funeral discourse.

The Paris correspondent of the London "Times" says the Arch-Duke Maximillian considers the recognition by the U. S. Government of the new Mexican monarchy as indispensable to his acceptance of the throne. A proposition was then formally made to that Government, and a dispatch from Washington received in reply to the effect that the American Republic would never tolerate—much less recognize—a monarchy established at their very doors.

A secret expedition left New Orleans on the 31st of Dec., supposed to be bound for Mobile. On the 8th of Jan., Nesmith introduced a resolution of thanks to Gen. Thomas his officers and men. Conness attacked Senator Hale in a speech for abusing Navy Department. Doolittle agreed with Conness, and Senator Davis characterized them as jackasses attempting to stifle investigation. Hale reiterated his charges of fraud, malfeasance, &c., eliciting the sharpest debate of the session. Cumberland, Md., is threatened by Fitzhugh Lee. The New Hampshire Democratic convention met at Concord on the 9th and passed resolutions condemnatory of the Administration.

Cincinnati, 9th.

Snow covered the ground at Chattanooga yesterday.

New York, 9th.

The Times gives an account of the going of a Negro brigade into North Carolina, the result was the liberation of 3000 slaves, and the capture of 350 mules, horses and oxen, and 75 saddle-horses, 100 uniforms and a lot of equipments, besides burning ten dwellings two distilleries and a large lot of corn and other produce.

New Orleans, 3d.—The whole rebel force in the South is collecting in east of Texas.

New York, 10th.—Our forces have been driven back from Bull's Station by Longstreet, who has been reinforced and ordered to take Knoxville at all hazards. We lost 200 men in four days skirmishing. Longstreet's army is said to comprise about 40,000.

Cairo, Jan. 10.—Lieut. Green of the 3d Arkansas cavalry, while on his way to Fort Smith with a detatchment, was attacked by rebel Col. Hall. The rebels were routed and the Colonel and 9 of his men taken prisoner. Capt. Nepier of the same regiment had an engagement with the enemy in Yell Co., taking Lieut. Burnett and 15 men prisoners.

The Democratic members of Congress met in convention on the 9th, John L. Dawson of Pennsylvania in the chair, and adopted a set of resolutions offered by Brooks of N. Y., declaring that the army and navy should be paid in gold coin or its equivalent in amount. Also that the President's proclamation of the 8th of Dec. is inexpedient, revolutionary and unconstitutional.

New York, 11th.—Moseby has been repulsed in Loudon county, Va., by Major Cole. Among the killed, Moseby lost four commissioned officers. The Shenandoah river is impassable from floating ice.

Chicago, 11.—The New Hampshire Republican Convention assembled on the 6th at Concord, and nominated Gov. Gilmore for re-election, and declared unanimously in favor of Lincoln for the next Presidency.

Hon. Caleb B. Smith is dead. Benjamin J. Harris, Member of Congress from Maryland, died of small-pox on the 11th. Senator Bowden is also dead. On the 12th, McDougall introduced a resolution, declaring the occupation of Mexico by the French, an act unfriendly to the United States, and demanding the withdrawal of the army on pain of a declaration of war. Keeting and Hollywood had a fight to-day at Sheepshead Bay, L. I. Keeting victorious in 47 rounds in over an hour.

Salt Lake, Jan. 12th.—Jason Luce was executed to-day in the jail-yard for the murder of Buaton.

Philadelphia, 13th.—Gen. Meade spoke briefly, urging enlistments. The Democratic National Convention will be held in Chicago on the 4th of July.

New York, 15th.—Gen. Banks writes the President that Louisiana will soon organize a a State Government under the Proclamation.

The names of Bishops Bailey, Limon, and McCloskey have been sent to Rome for succession to Archbishop Hughes. Gov. Parker's message to the New Jersey Legislature, disapproved of Lincoln's Proclamations, both of freedom and amnesty as obstacles in the way of peace.

Fortress Monroe, 14th.—A dispatch from Lee to the Petersburg Register, announces the capture of 123 cattle, 125 mules, and 200 Yankees in Hardin county.

Washington, 15.—Senator Conness introduced a resolution of inquiry as to why the Overland Mail to California had failed for the last two months.

Wm. Baker, the Young Patriot.

I.

"No, William Baker, you can't have my daughter's hand in marriage until you are equal in wealth and social position." The speaker was a haughty old man of some sixty years, and the person whom he addressed was a fine looking young man of twenty-five. With a sad aspect the young man withdrew from the stately mansion.

II.

Six months later the young man was in the presence of the haughty old man. "What! you here again!" angrily cried the old man. "Ah, old man," proudly exclaimed William Baker; "I am here, your daughter's equal and yours!" The old man's lip curled with scorn. A derisive smile lit up his features; when, casting violently upon the marble center table an enormous roll of greenbacks, William Baker cried; "See! Look on this wealth. And I've tenfold more! Listen, old man! You spurned me from your door. But I did not despair. I secured a contract for furnishing the Army of the —— with beef." "Yes, yes!" eagerly cried the old man."—"And I bought up all the disabled cavalry horses I could find"—"I see! I see!" exclaimed the old man. "And good beef they make, too." "They do, they do! and the profits are immense." "I should say so!" "And now, sir," said William, "I claim your daughter's fair hand." "Boy, she is yours. But hold! Look me in the eye. Throughout all this you have been loyal?" "To the core!" cried William Baker. "And," continued the old man in a voice husky with emotion, "are you in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war?" "I am, I am!" "Then, boy, take her! Maria, child, come hither. Be happy, my children. And, whatever our lot in life may be, let us all support the Government!" —[Artemus Ward.

TO PROTECT CALIFORNIA.—Owing to the multiplied evidences that the pirate Alabama is coming toward the Pacific waters, we are to have three war vessels sent for the protection of our ports and commerce, and a Major General, is to relieve Gen. Wright in this Department, bringing when he comes several batteries of artillery. Such is the stirring news brought us by telegraph to-day. Concerning our wrecked Comanche we hear of no instructions from the Government.—[S. F. Bulletin, Jan. 16.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1864.

Trial and Sentence of David Howard, James P. Romain and Christopher Lower, before His Honor, Judge Parks, at Lewiston.

The Jury was finally impanneled on the 20th of January, and several witnesses examined to prove the departure of Lloyd Magruder and party from Beaver Head with money; and, that the prisoners, cognizant of the fact, had left at the same time, &c. The principal witness, however, was Wm. Page an accomplice in the crime, who had "turned State's evidence," and who details with great accuracy and precision all the horrible particulars of one of the most deliberate, foul and cold-blooded murders that has ever been recorded in the annals of crime.

Magruder was known to be bringing over a considerable sum of money from Beaver Head, and these parties, in order to possess themselves of it, not only murdered him, but Charles Allen, a man by the name of Phillips and two young men—names not known, supposed to be brothers—who were traveling with the train. When about six and a half miles this side of Clearwater river, they encamped under some large trees. Magrudrr and Lower were on the first watch, and they started out to where the animals were, Lower taking along an ax, saying he would build a fence across the trail to keep the mules from wandering in a particular direction. The balance went to bed as usual; the witness was aroused about the middle of the night, and supposed it to be the watch coming to call him—looked up and saw Howard and Lower, who asked, "Are you awake?" Witness nodded his head. They lie down, and soon Howard and Romain get up, each with an ax, pass by where Page lay, without hat, boots or coats, in the direction of the two brothers;—soon P. heard several heavy blows and long mournful groans. H. and R. again lie down on their blankets; they soon got up, and Howard shot Allen with shot-gun, and Romain at the same instant killed Phillips with an ax. Phillips screamed murder, but Romain laid on harder two or three more blows, and said he wished Jim Rhodes had come along, as he wished to kill him. They told Page not to be frightened, as all the dirty work was done, and they were in no danger. They sent Page up the hill to look after the mules, and told him that at a point where a fire was burning, was the spot where Magruder was murdered. Phillips and Allen were tied up in a tent and rolled over a precipice, as was also the two brothers. They were all provided with moccasins in order to make it appear to have been Indians, if the bodies were ever found. They then proceeded to Lewiston, and the public are informed as to the circumstances of their journey to San Francisco, followed by Hill Beachy, their arrest, return to Lewiston, &c.

On the 22d the testimony closed, and Hon. Milton Kelly of Boise county, opened the argument for the prosecution in a speech of an hour's length, which was listened to with great attention by a crowded house of anxious listeners. J. W. Anderson and W. W. Thayer, esqs., followed for the defense in able efforts, but without effect either on the Jury or the people, whose hearts were not with the prisoners, but away in that lone mountain gorge, among the frozen and mangled remains, and with the parents, widows and orphans of the murdered men. Hon. W. C. Rheam closed the argument in a pathetic speech, during which the Jury and audience were bathed in tears. The case went to the Jury, who, on first ballot and without any interchange of opinion, agreed on a verdict, which was, that the prisoners were guilty of murder in the first degree, and that punishment shall be death. It being Saturday evening Court adjourned until Monday morning, 25th, defendants' Counsel filing bill of exceptions, &c., so that sentence was delayed beyond the time of publication of the Golden Age from which we glean these facts.

We are informed by Mr. Luckett, to whom we are indebted for the paper, that sentence was subsequently pronounced, and that Romain, Lower and Howard are to be hung on the 4th day of March at Lewiston. If all the sentences and judgments Judge Parks shall pronounce during his official career among us shall prove as righteous as this one, he will be "honored above all men." Often have we heard and read of fiendish murder, unprovoked except by sordid greed of gold and wanton and depraved hearts; but never has anything come home to us with such terrible distinctness as this. Lloyd Magruder was our friend, and, though in a remote degrees our kinsman, whom we were proud to acknowledge as such; a man whose honor, in[illegible], manly disposition an[illegible]cial qualities [illegible] to all with w[illegible] he came in [illegible] bers who share his [illegible] unknown to us, but of course have each a history and friends who loved them. We have no sympathy for the doomed criminals, and almost feel as if we could see them eaten up alive by mice of the smallest description.

LEGISLATURE.—Our correspondence from the Capital this week, details the doings of the Legislature as far as our county is concerned, up to the 18th of January, in a clear and interesting style that will well repay a perusal. Laws relating to the following subjects have passed both houses and been signed by the Governor:—To incorporate Bannock City Water Company; relating to County Treasurers; to provide increased pay to officers of this Territory; money on account and interest; to create the Board of County Commissioners and define their duties; in relation to County Jails and Prisoners; in relation to bills of exchange and promissory notes; to bonds and due-bills; marriage and divorce; conveyances; to authorize John Hawerton & Co. to build a wagon-road from the mouth of Little Salmon to Placerville; wild game; Chas. Cone & Co. to build a road in Idaho county; to establish counties east of Bitter Root mountains; memorial to Congress to treat with Yellowstone Indians; to preserve files of newspapers published in Idaho Territory; to prevent escape of prisoners; to create the county of Oneida; to authorize Hill Beachy to establish a road from Lewiston to the Mullan road; fraudulent conveyances.

A NUT FOR CAPT. LEES TO CRACK.—In addition to what we published of Page's confession in our extra of Wednesday, we copy the following from the Golden Age:

"We (Page & Lower) were arrested at a private house on Dupont street, San Francisco, by Capt. Lees, of the Police; the other two were at the Lick House. At first, we were put in a private room and guarded closely. Howard was acquainted with the Capt. of Police. There was an arrangement to get us out on a writ of habeas corpus; the Capt. was to have all the money but $1000;—after this we were all put in one room, so that we might all tell one tale, &c. A letter was to be written and dropped, stating that a purse had been found in the Beaver-Head country, with Magruder's name on it, &c., &c."

Whenever an opportunity offered since they have been in Lewiston, these men cautioned witness to stick to the old story and they would yet get clear. And this is the Captain Lees whose praise has been sounded from lip to lip along the Columbia from its source to the ocean, for the active part he took in bringing the murderers to justice, and to whom resolution after resolution of thanks has been introduced in the Idaho Legislature.

"Ah, that deceit should steal such gentle shapes,
And with a virtuous visor hide deep vice!"

THE Bulletin gives it on authority it deems reliable, that Major-General McPherson is the general that is coming to San Francisco to take General Wright's place. This looks as if there was to be an army division formed on the Pacific coast, otherwise a Major-General's services would hardly be required. It may be however, that McPherson's large experience and superior ability in the construction of harbor-defences, have pointed him out as a proper person to superintend the strengthening of the forts about the Bay of San Francisco.

JOS. LUCKETT, Esq., arrived in this city on Sunday evening, seven days from Umatilla, bringing the Oregonian of the 26th and Lewiston Age printed 25th Jan., containing the particulars of the murder trial at that place. Mr. L. came through direct from San Francisco, passing on the way crowds of people making their way to these mines. So great is the rush of passengers between San Francisco and Portland that the "Stevens" has been placed on the route in addition to the regular steamers. The road between this and the Columbia river is literally lined with teams, pack-trains, people on horseback, &c., bending their course for Boise Basin.

BAD PROSPECT.—A correspondent of the Bulletin writes that unless rain should fall immediately, the pastures along the coast below Monterey will not sustain the cattle and other stock. No rain fell from the 1 th of Nov. to the 23d of Dec. Without heavy rains there will not be hay enough from Point Conception to San Diego for the stage and wagon horses; other stock must inevitably die off. The weather has been sultry as in July, and the whole population has been afflicted more or less with a sort of influenza.

DISPENSATION ARRIVED.—Idaho Lodge U. D. F. & A. M. is now organized and in working order at their Hall, up stairs at the corner of Montgomery and Wall streets, under dispensation granted by the Grand Lodge of the State of Oregon. Regular meetings first Saturday after the full-moon in each month. Call meetings every Saturday eve-[illegible]

INCORPORATIONS.—The following certificates of incorporation were filed with the District Clerk of this district, Feb. 6th, in accordance with the provisions of the corporation law of this Territory:—Boise Wagon-road Co.—A. G. Turner, J. W. Keenan and J. W. Brown, incorporators and trustees; capital stock $20,000, shares $100 each.——Idaho and California Wagon-road Company; capital stock $100,000, shares $100 each; Thos. J. Butler, J. S. Butler, John Charlton, Isaac D. Huntoon Harry Norton, Geo. Woodman, G. A. B. Berry, John Gray, J. B. Francis, W. R. Underwood, J. W. Keenan, J. W. Brown, and A. G. Turner, incorporators; trustees, T. J. Butler, J. W. Keenan, I. D. Huntoon, A. G. Turner, and H. Norton. Object of Company to build a wagon-road from Snake river ferry, near Fort Boise, to Red Bluff, Cal., via Ruby city, Owyhee mines. Principal place of business, Bannock city.——Idaho and California Telegraph Company. I. D. Huntoon. John Charlton, J. W. Keenan and George I. Gilbert, incorporators. Capital stock $50,000. Trustees, Huntoon, Charlton and Keenan. Line of telegraph from Bannock city to Red Bluff.——Deer creek Ditch Company. L. N. Rhoads, Thos. Brown, E. Gilman, and Geo. I. Gilbert, incorporators. Capital stock $20,000. Trustees, Rhoads, Brown and Gilman.

SAMUEL HOGAN, a packer with 13 animals, en route from Boise city to Owyhee mines, loaded with goods, encamped about 33 miles beyond Boise city, near a ferry on Snake river, on the night of Wednesday the 10th of this month. The partner of Hogan stood the first watch, and came in about midnight. Hogan got up and sat by the fire, his partner meanwhile going to sleep, when he heard the report of a gun, and rose up in his blankets—heard a groan, and asked what was the matter. Hogan replied, "I am shot." The partner—whose name, other than John, we have not learned—ran to him and ascertained that he was shot through and through near the waist with a very large ball. John ran to a house near by for assistance, and when they returned Hogan was dead. There were some 18 or 20 men at the house, about a quarter of a mile distant, including Mr. Roberts of the Dalles. There were many moccasin tracks to been seen in the morning,—the animals all gone, and the general belief is, that the deed was done by Indians; though there are those who suspect that there are white men at the head of it all. For these facts we are indebted to Mr. Hillhouse of the Owyhee Express.

PROCEEDINGS IN JUSTICE'S COURT.—The following examinations have been had in Justice Walker's court during the week:—Territory vs. Mrs. K. E. Bates; assault to kill;—testimony insufficient and defendant discharged.——Territory vs. Charles Turner; shooting at Duncan, the Auctioneer; held in the sum of $1500 for his appearance at district court, and in default, went to jail.——Territory vs. Welsh, Ryan and Doe; exhibiting weapons in a rude and angry manner; Doe, discharged; Welsh and Ryan held to answer at district court in $500 each.——We expected to be able to publish the testimony taken before 'Squire Stringham, in the Britten and Holbrook shooting affair, this week but are disappointed in not receiving it in time.

FROM the Dalles "Mountaineer" of the 22d of January, we compile the following:

The enrolling-officer reports 1800 names of able bodied men in Wasco county, between the ages of 20 and 45. Mrs. Hayne is expected at the Dalles theater soon. John Kelly had announced a wonderful performance on the 23d, with a young Snake Indian. The town was lively and the streets crowded with strangers, among whom were many Californians on their way to the mines. The O. S. N. Co. employ at the Dalles, Celilo and on the Railroad, 212 men, and expend $30,916 monthly at that point in the prosecution of their business. The directors of the Boise Road Co. have made arrangements to put on a saddle-train.

THE WILLOWS BURNED.—On the 12th of January, a fire broke out in the kitchen of that beautiful suburban retreat—"The Willows," near San Francisco, and in one hour all the buildings connected with the hotel department were in ashes. Mr. Gilbert, who kept the house, narrowly escaped with his wife and children, not even saving a pair of pants to put on. It is understood that Pioche, who owns the premises, intends to replace it with a magnificent and spacious brick building. The theater, shooting-galleries, tenpin-alleys, wooden horses, pelicans, sea-mews and other birds and beasts were saved.

JUDGE HOFFMAN has decided that the Chapman prize-money is to be divided equally between the Government and Capt. Travis the informant.

THE weather has been distressingly beautiful thus far, and miners are beginning to fear a lack of water in the Spring. No snow worth naming has fallen during this month and the ground is beginning to show itself in spots. Our Thermometrical table will have to lay over until our new material, now three months over due, arrives, when we will be able to do rule and figure work without having it drop out every time we lift the form.

CITY ITEMS.—District Court will meet one week from next Monday, in the Idaho Theater, which is being renovated for that purpose.——The Firemen are going to have a grand ball on the 22d.——The ladies intend giving a leap-year ball on Monday evening, and we understand, have engaged all the sleighs in town to bring their partners.——The Sliding Club has removed to a new track across Moore's creek.

THANKS.—Wells, Fargo & Co., as usual, have been generous with bundles of papers from the East and the West; and H. M. Swinnerton of the Book-store, has placed us under obligations for the latest papers received by last Express.

"MOSE," who keeps the stand along side of Boston & Cody's, is not Mose, but Charley, and people are requested to address him as Charley, and not Mose.

ST. PAUL, (Minn.,) Dec. 31.—Capt. Fiske, who made two successful overland trips to Idaho gold mines, made a report to the St. Paul Historical Society, which shows that the route via St. Paul and Fort Abercrombie to Fort Benton, is 321 miles shorter than the route via Omaha and Fort Atkinson, is better supplied with wood, water and grass in Summer, is more healthful and safe, and has less snow in Winter. He returned via Salt Lake and Omaha, and reports that 700 miles of the route was once a sandy, barren desert, producing only sage-bushes and alkali water, and that all along the route are graves of emigrants and the carcasses of their animals. He also reports that the expense of outfits is much cheaper by this route than by Omaha. He suggests the opening of a wagon-road via Big Stone Lake to the Missouri river; thence along the 45th parallel to the Yellowstone river country, which would shorten the distance 800 [illegible] to the Bannock city mines.

SHORTLY before he died, Patrick Henry, laying his hand on the Bible, said: "Here is a book worth all others; yet it is my sad misfortune never to have read it until lately, with proper attention." With voice and gesture pertinent, and all his own, John Randolph said: "A terrible proof of our depravity is, that we can relish and remember anything better than the Book." When the shadows of death were gathering around Sir Walter Scott, he said to the watcher: "Bring me the book." "What book?" asked Lockhart, his son-in-law. "There is but one book," said the dying man.

EXPORTS.—The ship Lizzie Moses, from San Francisco for New York, has a cargo estimated at $250,000, among which are 423 bales of wool, 340 casks of oil, 44,400 hides, 1,500 sacks of mustard seed, 7,000 sacks of copper ore; 95 packages of wine, 46 bales rags, 20 cases of rosin, 110 bales skins, etc. This is the way to pay off our debts.

COMING HOME.

BY PHŒBE CARY.

O brothers and sisters, growing old,
Do you all remember yet
That home, in the shade of the rustling trees,
Where once our household met?

Do you know how we used to come from school,
Through the Summer's pleasant heat,
With the yellow fennel's golden dust
On our tired little feet?

And how sometimes in an idle mood
We loitered by the way,
And stopped on the way to gather flowers
And in the fields to play—

Till, warned by the deep'ning shadow's fall
That told of the coming night,
We climbed to the top of the last, long hill,
And saw our homes in sight!

And, brothers and sisters, older now
Than she whose life is o'er,
Do you think of the mother's loving face
That looked in at the open door?

Alas, for the changing things of time;
That home in the dust is low,
And that loving smile was hid from us
In the darkness, long ago!

And we have come to life's last hill,
From which our weary eyes
Can almost look on that home that shines
Eternal in the skies.

So, brothers and sisters, as we go,
Still let us move as one,
Always together keeping step
Till the march of life is done;

For that mother who waited for us here,
Wearing a smile so sweet,
Now waits on the hill of paradise
For her children's coming feet!

WITH THEE FOREVER.

Oh, would I were with thee forever,
Oh, would that we might never part;
That the joy which now thrills me might ever
Fill up every vein of my heart.
I have traveled the fairy world over,
I have tasted full many a bliss,
But 'twas madness to hope to discover
The wealth of a moment like this.

Fate might point to the hour with her finger,
That should tear me asunder from thee,
Yet my spirit would near thee still linger,
And laugh at the harmless decree.
But no fancies like these will I cherish,
Nor fear the sweet dream will not last—
That the bliss of this moment will perish,
Or live but a shade of the past.

No! enough that I know thou art near me,
Enough that I feel thou art mine—
As you gaze in my face, that you hear me,
In accents responding to thine!
Then away with the future before me!
Like a syren still singing of bliss,
Not the breath of all time can allure me,
While I live in a moment like this.

Sentence of David Howard, James P. Romain and Christopher Lower, at Lewiston.

The prisoners were brought into Court on the 26th of January, and asked if they had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced. Romain claimed that he had not time to procure witnesses. Lower said he was innocent. Howard said Page was a bad man; had told a long story, the greater part of which was false; he was innocent of the blood of Magruder and Allen, and that in God's own good time, He would make all plain; his only crime was that of gambling. Judge Parks then addressed them as follows:

"The duty which I am now called upon to perform is one of the most painful of my life. I am to pronounce a sentence which will consign to an early and infamous death, three young men, each in the prime of his life and strength. A few years since you left your homes; all respectable; all with useful and honorable occupations; all with high hopes, and all the objects of the love of relatives and friends. You had more than ordinary energy and intelligence, and might have made useful and influential men in your day and generation; been respected and upheld by all good citizens. How different is the picture you present to-day. You are degraded and abandoned outcasts; universally regarded as the implacable enemies of humanity; you have not only the Territory of Idaho, but all civilized society combined against you. I do not say these things to reproach you, but from a sense of duty. Punishment is inflicted even upon the worst of criminals, not in a spirit of vengeance, nor to expiate or atone for their crimes, but to prevent such offenses in future; partly by taking away from them the power to do further mischief, but principally by deterring others by their example. In this regard, it is right that your lives and crimes should be commented upon, and your dreadful end be held up as a warning to all evil doers.

Your history demonstrated clearly the ruinous effects of idleness and bad company. You abandoned your occupations to hang around saloons, gambling-houses and low haunts of vice. You became the associates of gamblers, and then gamblers yourselves. As there is but one step from gambling to stealing, you soon became thieves, then robbers, and then murderers, of course. And you have closed your career by one of the most awful tragedies ever recorded; one which, when it shall be known in all its horrid details, will cause the ear of humanity to tingle.

What a warning is this, to all men, to follow respectable pursuits, and to avoid the haunts of vice and the dens of the gambler. Upon all these sinks of iniquity should be written, in letters of fire, "this is the way to hell—going down to the chambers of death."

Another thing in your history illustrates, and the lesson should not be lost upon all men inclined to follow your ways; it is that there is no security, to any man, in the commission of such crimes, no matter how wild or remote the place of commission. You vainly thought, that by the murder of all your fellow travelers, you secured silence and safety. You burned the blood of Magruder that it might not reveal your guilt; but, like the blood of Abel, it cried to God against you, and the cry was heard and answered. Providence has not imparted wisdom to guilt, and the very means employed by you to escape, led to suspicion, pursuit and detection. It is a strange coincidence that your conduct first excited the suspicion of one of Magruder's friends; that he followed and brought you back here; that you have been tried and condemned close to the desolate home of the murdered man, and in sight and hearing of his widowed wife and orphan children. The robber and the murderer may learn from your fate that there is no safety for them, and that the way of the transgressor is indeed hard. If such men have expected immunity, in crime here, let them know now, that the reign of law and order has commenced, even in this remote region; that where bad men array themselves against society, they encounter a power they can neither resist nor escape; and that the punishment of the law WILL be visited upon them.

You have had a fair trial, and been legally convicted, and your punishment will be just. It is my duty to tell you that there is no hope of pardon or escape. The law gives you but a few days to live. Let me advise you to employ that time in making what reparation you can for the evil you have done, and in preparing for trial before that Great Judge, at whose bar you will soon stand; whose laws, as well as those of man, you have violated; whose goodness you have abused, and whose power you have defied. And it will be the prayer of all good men that, in your final trial, you may find a merciful Judge, and that your crimes—numerous and great as they have been—may be forgiven."

The Judge then sentenced them to be hung by the neck, on the 4th day of March, 1864, until they were dead. After the Judge had passed sentence, Lower remarked that he hoped that God would forgive them all, as he did.

BOISE CITY, February 4th, 1864.

DEAR NEWS:

"I arrived here after a day and five hours walk—the distance I imagine to be about 35 miles. When I reached the summit that divides the waters of Moore's creek and Boise river, I looked around me and was astonished; on my right, left and rear were mountains, whose hoary heads seemed to be conversing with the God that made them; while before me was a scene of verdure, smiling and lovely;—each stream, like a silver cord, wending its serpentine course to the bosom of the mild mother of waters. How grand and glorious are the works of nature! "Who can tell where sleep the stormy winds?"

Here the husbandmen are engaged in tilling the earth with every prospect of a glorious future, and the shepherd watching his flocks; people seem to be content—unlike the Basin, where everything seems to be murder, discontentedness, avariciousness, each one seeking by what technicality he can wrong his neighbor.

The news from Owyhee seems to be favorable, as well as from the South Boise; people are coming every day with divers of versions as regards the richness and prospects of each locality. What to determine on is a matter for consideration hereafter.

I have heard of the Fort—"Boise"—but its geographical position I never imagined before seeing it. It is well located on a beautiful plateau; its position is sufficiently elevated to command observation up and down the valley, and it is well devised; the quarters are good when finished—not too costly, but substantially built, being of stone, or rough ashler. The officers are attentive and seemingly strict in their duty; among them are many that I have known as military men for years, among whom may I mention Captain Seidenstriker. There are but few San Franciscans, who do not remember old "Cap."—Lt. Funk, now A. A. Q. M., seems as though the whole department was with him; he allows nothing, nor no liberties, unless by the command of Major Rinearson, who, in combination with the other officers, seems determined that unnecessary money shall not be spent. I was well pleased to see the interest taken by the commanding officer, when the news arrived here of the murder of Hogan at Owyhee. Yesterday the express arrived, and as the news reached the commanding officer, he said, "We have no stock to go with, but I will go myself; this must, and shall be stopped." The works at the Fort have been suspended for the present, but will be resumed again soon. A fine limestone quarry has been found, and preparations being made to work the same; the location is about 5 miles from here. Farmers are now making preparations to plant; in fact, here "everything looks lovely, and the goose hangs high." In haste, OLD SAGE.

WILKINS, the seventh man hung at Los Angeles, during the months of November and December, by the Vigilance Committee, made the following confession on the 20th of December, at which time he paid the penalty of all his crimes:

He said that he was English born; that his parents were living at Salt Lake city and were Mormons; that he had a sister living at Goshen, about 60 miles from Salt Lake; that he killed his first man when 17 years old, coming to this country; that he was in the "Mountain Meadows massacre," where he got $5,000 or $6,000, and that with that money he and others went to the States and had a spree on it; that he killed Blackburn on the Mohave, when he got $300 in money, and a lot of mules, &c.

Wilkins said also that Wilburn was not killed by the Indians, as reported, but by the Mormons. Two years ago a party from here and San Bernardino went out through the Cajon Pass after horse-thieves. Near Rock creek they recovered over 40 horses, and caught two of the thieves, who were sent to the State Prison; but the third man escaped to the mountains. Wilkins was that third man of that band. From there he afterwards made his way to Salt Lake. He said he was one of the prisoners, having been sentenced from San Luis Obispo for stealing, who made the break from the State Prison a year or so ago, and that he was the one who helped to hold Lieut.-Gov. Chellis before the cannon to save themselves from being fired upon. He says that about a year ago he killed a drover named Carr, near Yreka—doubtless many will remember the murder. He says that he and a Mexican who escaped from the State Prison at the same time that he did, agreed to kill the drover and another man; that he killed Carr; that he generally made sure of his man, he said; but the Mexican, though he fired 4 or 5 shots at the other man, did not get him, and he got away. Wilkins said he got, I think, about $3,000 this time. From Sanford he only got his pistol and knife and about $20 in money.

When asked if conscience did not trouble him for having killed Sanford and others, Wilkins, replied, No, that he thought no more of killing a man than he would a dog. He said that the Mexican who helped him kill the drover at Yreka, is now or was lately knocking about here in this county.

Wilkins said that he stole a pistol and bowie knife from the Bella Union Hotel here about six weeks ago, (he was here about that time and a pistol and knife were stolen then,) and gave them to Woods, one of the five persons hung by the people here on the 21st of November, and told him to go out on the road and earn his living with them—that he had better do that than hang about the dance houses here. Woods acted on his advice, turned highwayman here in the streets of our city, and soon afterwards was hanged by the Vigilance Committee, along with his accomplice Ybarra.

RESOLUTIONS passed at a meeting of the Idaho Union League, February 12th, 1864:

Resolved, That in being so soon called upon to mourn the loss of two more of our members—brothers M. P. Burns, and James Hope—the members of this League are forcibly reminded that "in the midst of life we are in death," and are solemnly invoked, each one of us, to be ready for the final summons.

Resolved, That we sympathize deeply with the friends and relatives of the deceased, thus falling in the midway of life, far from their kindred and their native land.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the I. U. L., and published in the BOISE NEWS.

JOHN G. HOWELL, Sec'y I. U. L.

FROM the position we happened to occupy during the time Page gave in his testimony—while he was coolly describing the scene of the horrid massacre—in casting our eye in the direction of the culprits, just over their heads through the window, and in a direct line about fifty yards away, we caught sight of a most impressive scene, one which will be ineffaceable while life lasts. There were the innocent orphans of the lamented Magruder, in sportive play on the porch of the residence of his heart-stricken widow, in full view, while we were hearing all the ample minutia of detail, of the ax crashing through the skulls and brains of our best citizens; and how the murderers, in order to avoid suspicion and exposure, burnt and scraped the blood off the deadly weapons.—[Golden Age.

HUMILIATING SPECTACLE.—The following remark was made by a Swell inspecting thro' his eye-glass a very small infant exhibited, to him at the instance of its father, by its nurse: "Welcome, little Stwangeaw! Eddy. Hagu-law queechaw,—of cawse, I was once a baby myself. Ought to make a fella hum[illegible]—the idea of having evaw been sa much [illegible] aw puppy!"

A WRITER in the Montgomery (A[illegible]ma) Advertiser gives the following [illegible] of what the rebel General John Mor[illegible] had done previous to his capture, [illegible] his command at no time exceeded 5,0[illegible]:—He has fought sixty-three [illegible] fifty thousand prisoners, killed and [illegible] 20,000, and destroyed $30.000 worth [illegible] property; taken 30,000 stand of small [illegible], 50 pieces of artillery and 20,000 horses, [illegible] traveled 12,000 miles.

Boise News.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1864.

POETRY—entitled the "Murdered Travelers"—will appear next week.

WATER IN THE DITCH.—The Elk creek ditch has been cleaned out, the water turned in; and parties have begun to ground-sluice to some extent on Bannock bar.

MR. BRUNN, a partner in the International Hotel at Placerville, was killed, on Christmas day, somewhere on Puget Sound, while endeavoring to make peace between two parties that were fighting.

HEAVY WEATHER on the Moore's creek coast, during the week, has caused a few wrecks and disasters. One craft lost her bearings, on Saturday, and slashed about the anchorage, doing some damage in the way of barking shins and breaking one man's leg.

MORNING STAR.—The proprietors have high hopes of the "Morning Star" lode, at Owyhee. The specimens shown us are undoubtedly rich both in silver and gold, with indications of the presence of other minerals. Malachite has been suggested as a more appropriate name.

FITTING UP.—The Idaho Theater is fast assuming the shape of a court-house, with witness-stands, jury-boxes, and the like. The old Idaho will make a respectable temple of justice. J. C. Henley, Clerk of the District Court, is also having a Judge and Clerk's office constructed on Wall street, above Main.

OVER seventy persons passed a certain cabin, on Moore's creek, one day last week, going to Beaver creek, and we have observed parties starting out in the same direction every morning since. Beaver city will soon have the requisite population to entitle it to the name of city.

FROM AUBURN.—Mr. Pierce, a lawyer from Auburn, arrived here about a week ago, and informs us that about one thousand men Wintered in that camp, and that their prospects for mining in the Spring are quite flattering. Many will leave, but those who own claims with a prospect of water to work them, have friends coming to join them so that the number will not be materially diminished.

IDAHO CITY.—The good people of Bannock—that was—were astonished on Sunday morning, to wake up and find themselves in a new city, but not among strangers;—by some transmutation, the whole population, houses and all, were in Idaho City,—and all this had been brought about by the receipt of a letter from Van Wyck, stating that Bannock was no more, but that the Legislature had incorporated our city under the name of IDAHO.

FRANK BRITTEN AND THEODORE HOLBROOK, who shot at each other so coolly week before last, at Placerville, had an examination before Justice Stringham last week, occupying several days of time, and resulting in the discharge of all parties concerned. It appears that those who witnessed the transaction, saw it so differently that the Judge, in giving each the benefits of his doubts, was unable to arrive at any conclusion whatever.

INCORPORATION OF IDAHO CITY.—Our city has been incorporated, and will of course have a mayor, marshal, regular police, &c. That it will increase the taxes on those who are reluctant to assist in the protection of the city, is no doubt true, but that it will decrease them on those who have had to support the special watchmen, is equally true; so that, upon the whole, it will prove a benefit. The way to accomplish anything in which the whole people have an equal interest, is to adopt a system, and live up to it. The Dist. Judge has announced that the reign of law and order has commenced, and of course, the reign and rule of chaos and disorder has ceased, and it is well to avail ourselves of all the legal appliances that go to constitute well organized society in a land of steady habits.

BEAUTIFUL ICE.—Last week we observed a a cake of solid ice some two feet in thickness, in front of the Idaho Saloon, which, we were informed, came from the dam of Cunningham & Co., Buckhorn gulch, where they have a large number of tons put up. This week we notice a singular specimen in front of the Challenge Saloon, put up on Moore's creek, by Messrs. Ervin & Burnett, where they have 150 tons of the same sort. These samples are so clear and perfectly transparent, that it is almost possible to read ordinary print through the entire thickness of two feet. Mr. Goodrich is also extensively engaged in packing ice on Elk creek. Mr. Turner, of Warm Springs, is freezing a large quantity, and perhaps others are putting up large quantities in other localities. The inference is, that ice will be cheap when warm weather comes, as come it will.

A BELLIGERENT individual, defying everybody and everything, including decency, at the corner of Wall and Main streets, was checked in his wild career, on Sunday afternoon, in a manner and with a result quite amusing. After cavorting in a terrible rage for half an hour, Sheriff Keenan came along, took him by the collar, gave him a shake or two and led him roughly up the sidewalk to the Sheriff's office and shoved him in violently, ordering him at the same time to shut his mouth. The fellow evidently thought the Day of Judgment was at hand, and he all unprepared about to be hurled into eternity. His prayers and supplications for mercy were heart-rending, and to cap the whole thing, he looked the Sheriff imploringly in the face and thanked him for his kindness—promising all manner of obedience. He was turned out into the back street and told to go home, which command he appeared to be thankful for an opportunity to obey, where he discovered the kindness was the rub.

BEAVER CITY.—Two low, long, rakish looking crafts some 12 or 15 foot length of keel, each loaded with some three hundred pounds of provisions and mining tools, and drawn by two men, passed out in the direction of the head waters of Moore's creek early on Wednesday morning. These are to us a new style of sleigh or sledge, consisting of a long board of the required length turned up at each end, sides made of rawhide with holes through the upper edge through which lashings are passed and the cargo fastened on. The idea seems to be to travel on the crust of the snow, which is in many places too tender to bear ordinary runners. The party, consisting of some ten, were bound for Beaver city, on Beaver creek, a tributary of North Boise, where there is quite a rush just at present. We shall give the public the benefit of the experience of some friends who have gone out there, as soon as they return.

MANY persons, on horseback, have arrived from below during the week. One crowd of twenty-two made its appearance on Sunday evening, and others in smaller squads have continued to come in every day since. All agree as to the immense influx on the way. It is not probable that there will be a day pass, from this time on to the end of the season, when our population will not be augmented by arrivals. Advices public and private, from California, Oregon, and even from the Eastern States, all tell the same story of people on the way to Idaho. An abundant supply of water would give them all something to do, and remuneration for their labor,—but without it, many will find themselves idle. Ditch companies should at once be formed for bringing in the Payette and Boise, stock payable in labor, and hired labor on ditches payable in water, in this way thousands may be employed to advantage, companies get rich and mines supplied with water.

DEATHS.—Among the eminent men who have died in the East this Winter, we notice Archbishop Hughes, Gen. Corcoran, Gen. Buford, Gen. Blenker, Hon. Caleb B. Smith, Levi B. Short (inventor of Greek fire), Senator Bowden and Congressman Harris. The English author, Thackery, is also dead. In California, several old residents have died recently, among whom were Wm. G. Chard of Tehama, a resident of this coast for more than thirty years. Capt. James M. Maxcy in the quartermaster's department at Camp Drum, formerly captain of police in Sacramento, hotel keeper at Shasta, Red Bluff and other points, and well-known throughout the State. James L. Hart, editor of the Northern Argus, and many others.

TRI-WEEKLY STAGE AND EXPRESS.—Today, according to announcement, the first coach of a tri-weekly line will leave Walla Walla for this city. Messrs. Thomas, Greathouse and others are proprietors, and have been for the last three or four weeks supplying the road with feed. Men are busily engaged along Burnt river and elsewhere, repairing the road, bridging streams, &c.—Wells, Fargo & Co., we understand, will carry their express on the stages, so that by Wednesday we may expect the first arrival of the stage and express, and every alternate day thereafter throughout the season.

SNAKE RIVER.—We hear rumors of a revival of the Snake river excitement, and hints that parties have Wintered somewhere in that region, and done well with rockers, but doubt the correctness of the reports. It is hardly reasonable that there are mines so far up the river free enough from snow and ice to be workable.

WHEELS VS. RUNNERS.—Teamsters about town have been obliged to lay aside their sleighs and resort to wagons for hauling goods, wood, &c., from one point to another, in consequence of the absence of snow and presence of bare ground in many portions of the city.

IDAHO CITY AND RED-BLUFF.—That the head of navigation on the Sacramento river, whether it be at Red Bluff or above, is the point from which Boise Basin, Owyhee, South Boise, Snake river, Malheur, and their countless tributaries all more or less rich in the precious metals, as well as the vast districts of mining country that lie to the south and east of them, are eventually to be supplied with goods, is fast becoming apparent to those who have any knowledge of the geography of the country. A company has recently been formed and a certificate of incorporation filed, having for its object the building of a good wagon-road to connect the mining regions, above mentioned, with the Sacramento depot. Some of the members of the company have traveled over the route, and confidently assert that the absence of sandy desert road on this route will more than overcome the slight differece in distance that exists between this Basin and Red Bluff, or from here to any point on the Columbia river where steamboats navigate; and our neighbors of the Owyhee are as near or nearer to the former place, than they are either to Wallula, Umatilla or the Dalles. These facts, our cotemporaries along the Columbia will probably affect to deny, but they are so stubborn and unyielding that we feel safe in trusting them with the public, who are invited to test them by any map of the country that has ever been pulished, and if not satisfied, to travel over the country and be convinced. The attention of the California Stage Co. is being called to the importance of this country, and the opening it will afford for the conveyance of passengers to and from the mines of Idaho on a direct route. The California Steam Navigation Company are also alive to their own interests in the matter, and will encourage the enterprise, while Wells, Fargo & Co., in advance even of the axmen of the surveyor, are seriously contemplating the establishment of an express-line early in the Spring. We have all these things to hope for, and when they are accomplished, will rejoice that there is a way by which to escape the monopolies that at present hedge the traveler on every hand, cramp the energies of our businessmen, and hang as an incubus about the neck of our fair young Territory. A company has also filed a certificate with a view to the building of a line of telegraph between Idaho City and Red Bluff, connecting us at once with all the Pacific and the Atlantic coasts. The distance between the points on an air-line, will not vary five miles from that between us and Portland, according to Leland's map. Red Bluff is situated in about latitude 40 1-2, and longitude 122 deg., so that its place in the margin of the map can be easily ascertained and the distance measured, and compared with other points. While we earnestly desire and urge the prosecution of these improvements, we would not neglect the present traveled road, which needs, and should receive, large expenditures of money in order to render it as free from objections as possible.

OCCIDENTALS.—The Occidental Brotherhood, as it once existed in Western Asia, between the Red Sea and Persian Gulf, for the relief of Pilgrims on their way from the Orient to the Occident, or from Turkestan and all Asia to Mecca, in Arabia, has been revived in this city, and holds its meetings for the performance of benevolent offices, as did the ancient brethren, at Aden, on the Straits of Babel Mandel, long before Cecrops performed the solemn ceremony of placing in the North East the initial-stone that led to so much Athenian splendor. The character of this country is very similar to that where the Brotherhood had its origin, and the necessities of the poor pilgrims in search of gold, are equal in extent—though the object may not be so worthy—as were those of the ancients, in the performance of what they conceived to be a religious obligation. It is the bounden duty of every benevolent heart, to encourage and strengthen the hands of the brethren in this good work, remembering that charity is long suffering and is kind, and that he that offendeth one that doeth a charitable deed, offendeth a little child in spirit, and should be loathed of all men. They hold their meetings on Montgomery street, every Tuesday evening, where contributions suitable for the relief of distress, in any form, will be received, and the name of the donor registered in a book and sent to the Patriarch of Kelat, there to be preserved along with the autographs of Moses and Soloman, and the benevolent of every age and country, and preserved till the last sand of time shall have been exhausted.

GAMBLERS.—The Bulletin, in discussing the anti-gambling act of California, says:

> "They have Nevada, Idaho and Arizona all open to them; why nurse and protect them here? Let us make San Francisco too hot for them. It is time to root them out and banish them as other violators of law are treated."

San Francisco had better keep her gamblers at home, unless she wants them ruined. Our Idaho gamblers would win every "red" they had, and send them back to the Bay city in a week, with no other means of making a living than begging or stealing. Better feed and nurse them a little longer, for they can have no show here.

Idaho, Oregon and California Wagon-road Company, Capital stock $500,000, in shares of $500 each. D. McLaughlin, H. Elkins, D. C. Patterson, N. Scheline, J. D. Smith, Wm. H. Trustees, Patterson, Keenan and Hough. Object of Company to build a wagon road from Boise City to Salt Lake, crossing Snake river at the Great Cataract.

WE WANT WATER.—Serious apprehensions are beginning to be entertained, that there will be a scarcity of water in the Basin, during the Summer; the meagre quantity of snow that has fallen, during the Winter, astonishes the oldest inhabitant, which individual has known the country now some eighteen months and never experienced so mild a Winter before. Blustery March is yet to come, however, and may bring with it "snow, clouds and storms," to the relief of thousands whose only hope for a fortune hinges on this one contingency. That the gold is in the ground, needs no confirmation, and all that is needed to enable the industrious to realize it, is water with which to wash it out.

LEAP-YEAR BALL.—The ladies did them selves great credit, on Monday evening, in getting up and managing their Leap-Year ball. St. Valentine's Express arrived about midnight,—

"With Valentines, and letters too,
Some twenty dozen very pretty ones,—
Gay, sober, rapturous, solemn, very true,
And very lying stupid ones, and witty ones,
On gilt-edged paper, blue perhaps, or pink,
And frequently in fancy-colored ink."

These, with a thousand other little delicate attentions, that the ladies only know how to improvise and carry out, rendered the party very pleasant, until three o'clock in the morning, when with all the gallantry of cavaliers, they took their partners home, and the ball broke up.

RIM-ROCK.—We went into a tunnel, on Moore's creek, on Sunday, about one hundred feet, to where they are cutting through the rim-rock, which, at that point, is blue, and resembles blue granite, but is soft; and what is most singular at that depth, some sixty or seventy feet from the surface, bark and wood are found in a good state of preservation, as well as wash gravel that has evidently been subjected to the action of water, and brought a long distance. This tunnel is perfectly dry, while others in the vicinity afford sufficient water to enable the owners to make good wages with rockers, which they are—and have been all Winter—improving industriously.

THE struggle between Winter and Spring, in Boise, has been productive, within the last twenty-four hours, of a light sprinkle of tears from the clouds.

LEON L. DAMERY.

The Britten and Holbrook Shooting Affair.

The examination in this case before his honor, Justice T. H. Stringham, commenced in Placerville on the 8th and closed on the 13th inst.,—E. D. Holbrook appearing as counsel for T. Holbrook, H. L. Preston for Frank Britten, and Dist. Atty. Hough for the people. The testimony as taken down, fills 350 pages of legal cap, and is of course too voluminous for our columns. We give below the decision of the Justice, which will enable the reader to understand the merits of the case.

OPINION OF THE COURT.

In deciding this case, wherein T. Holbrook and Frank Britten are charged with the crime of assault with intent to commit murder, I have to perform a duty that I owe to the defendants and to the community that I would gladly avoid, but a zealous desire to do justice to all and see that the law, of which I am an officer, is kept inviolate, impels me to its performance.

From the evidence, which has been fully brought out both by the Prosecuting Attorney and the Counsel for defendants, and ably and almost impartially argued by the attorneys on both sides, I am satisfied that an offence has been committed over which this Court has not jurisdiction; I shall, therefore, claim the privilege granted by statute to an examining court, and transcend, to some extent, the rules and forms as expressly laid down in the law.

The evidence shows that T. Holbrook committed an assault upon F. Britten with intent to kill, by drawing a revolver and presenting it at him without sufficient cause, although he might have been justifiable in fighting his antagonist afterwards in the contest. It also shows that F. Britten committed the same offense by drawing a derringer in a hostile manner, and laying his hand on Holbrook's shoulder (taking into consideration the fact that they were not on speaking terms), and afterwards in not embracing an opportunity to keep out of danger, but procuring a revolver, he sought his antagonist in the street, and fired at him,—thereby endangering the lives of many,—with intent to kill him. It does not, however, appear to have been provoked on the part of either of these defendants by malice aforethought, or any previous design or preparation; no threats either preceding or succeeding the combat. It is also shown to the Court, that the defendants are both men of unimpeachable character, of good order and law-abiding. After considering the circumstances and weighing the evidence in this case, and with the advice of the Prosecuting Attorney, the Court is satisfied that, although an indictable offense has been committed by these parties, that it would not advance justice nor prevent crime to require these parties to recognize in any sum for their appearance at the next term of the District Court; as the Grand Jury and Prosecuting Attorney will have the evidence in the case before them, can act in the premises as they deem expedient, and if this Court has erred, can proceed as in an original case;—no fear is apprehended of the commission of any crime growing out of this affair. The Court, notwithstanding a serious offense has been committed against the peace and dignity of the people, discharges the defendants with a reprimand, and hopes this experience will teach them that prudence and forbearance are more profitable in their observance than pride governed by passion.

T. H. STRINGHAM,
Justice of the Peace.

Terrible Catastrophe at Santiago, Chili, on the 8th of December.

TWO THOUSAND WOMEN AND CHILDREN BURNED IN A CHURCH!!

On the day of the Immaculate Conception, while the Order of the Daughters of Mary, under the leadership of a fanatical priest named Ugarte, were celebrating in the old Church of the Jesuits, with lights of oil, liquid wax, gas and every luminous combustible known in pyrotechnics, causing the church to blaze as a sea of fire and flutter with clouds of muslin and gauze draperies, Urgate had persuaded himself and simple followers, that by this foolish display, unwarranted either by the church or common sense, they were invoking an unction that would put them in direct communication with the Holy Virgin. A letter-box had been provided near the altar by which the daughters of Mary were induced to believe they could correspond with the Mother of God in writing. An Apostolic Nunci had declared that he had seen a more brilliant illumination of a church at Rome, Ugarte determined, as, he said, to show him on this occasion such an illumination as the world has never seen, and he kept his word. The following editorial comments are taken by the Bulletin from the Valparaiso Mercurio:

"A dreadful visitation has fallen upon us. Truly this is 'a day of trouble and rebuke and blasphemy.' The voice of lamentation is heard all over the land, the bitter weeping of fathers, husbands and lovers, for those who were the joy and brightness of their life, that refuses to be comforted because they are not.

Hundreds of young girls—only yesterday radiant and beautiful in the luxuriant bloom of the fresh, hopeful spring of life—to-day calcined, hideous corpses, horrible, loathsome to the sight, impossible to be recognized.

The 8th of December was a great triumph for the clergy of the church of the Jesuits in Santiago. An enthusiastic audience filled every nook. There were hardly any men there, but 3,000 women comprising the flower of the beauty and fashion of the capital were at the feet of the ecclesiastics, very many, against the will of fathers and husbands—but that of course only showed forth the might of the Gospel.

Never had such pyrotechny been seen before—20,000 lights mostly camphene, in long festoons of colored globes, blazed the church into a Hall of Fire. But the performance had not yet begun when the crescent of fire at the foot of the gigantic image of the Virgin over the high altar overflowed, and climbing up the muslin draperies and pasteboard devices to the wooden roof rolled forth a torrent of flame. The suddeness of the fire was awful. The dense mass of women, frightened out of their senses—numbers fainting and all entangled by their long swelling dresses—rushed as those who know that death was at their heels, to the one door which soon became choked up. Fire was everywhere. Streaming along the wooden ceiling, it flung the paraffine lamps hung in rows there among the struggling women. In a moment the gorgeous church was a sea of flame. Michael Angelo's fearful picture of Hell was there, but exceeded."

At Cologne, a young lady of good family was sentenced lately to a month's imprisonment, for robbing a live ostrich, an inmate of the Zoological Gardens there, of some of his finest plumes.

THE MURDERED TRAVELERS.

When Winter toward Spring had waned—
Brought bloom and joy again,
The murdered travelers' bones were found
Far down a narrow glen.

The willow trees above them wave
Their branches in the air,
And many a vernal blossom gave
Their odors to the fair.

But there was weeping far away,
And gentle eyes for them,
With watching many an anxious day,
Grew sorrowful and dim.

They little knew, who loved them so,
The fearful death they met,
When traveling o'er the mountain snow
Unarmed and hard beset.

But long they looked and feared and wept,
Within their distant homes,
And dreamed, and started as they slept,
For joy that never comes.

So, long they looked, but never spied
Their welcome steps again,
Nor knew the fearful death they died
Far down that narrow glen.

Buena Vista City, Feb. 12th, 1864. G. W. R.

BENEATH THE SYCAMORE.

O yes I am here in a golden land
Where nature's ever green;
Where the billows lave a golden strand
And gold is in every stream.

But still my heart clings to the vale
Far from this gilded shore,
Away where the river's silvery waves
Glide 'neath the Sycamore.

Roll on, thou river, still and clear—
Thy banks with wild-flowers dressed;
O would that I were there again,
'Twould sooth this aching breast.

To hear the murmering of the rill,
Still blending with thy roar;
Say, does the nodding lilly still
Hang drooping on thy shore?

Or has the hostile foe yet tread
Upon those sacred plains,
My kinsmen numbered with the dead,
My friends among the slain?

Why should this war of brothers still
Be carried on amain?
O stop the warrior's bugle-shrill,
Let stop this life's blood drain.

But now adieu to all those scenes,
Those happy scenes of yore;
Farewell my childish sports, and green,
Beneath the Sycamore. A. F. M.

Pioneer City, Feb. 15th, 1864.

THE Providence Post, in a very fulsome and foolish article, recently recommended Senator Sprague as the proper man to succeed General Meade, asserting, among other things, that he "can do twenty things at once, and do them well." The Cleveland Plain-Dealer thinks the following comprises a list of the feats of this twenty-horse act: "1st, he can play on the triangle; 2d, he can play on the trombone; 3d, he can churn; 4th, he can milk a cow; 5th, he can feed the pigs; 6th, he can eat a big meal of victuals; 7th, he can sing 'Yankee Doodle;' 8th, he can take Richmond so quick she won't know what hurt her; 9th, he can wear No. 18 gaiters; 10th, he can 'list to the mocking-bird;' 11th, he can perform 'John Brown's Body' upon a bass drum; 13th, he can stop the breathing of sneaks at rifle shot distance; 14th, he can do or die; 15th, he can trip the light fantastic toe; 16th, he can smoke cigars if they don't make him sick; 17th, he can sleep four in a bed if the parties lay spoon-fashion; 18th, he can wear No. 4 boots if his feet are sufficiently small; 19th, he can take Meade's place, provided Old Abe's willing; 20th, he can keep dry when it rains by remaining in doors."

APPOINTMENTS OF COUNTY OFFICERS.—The following is a list of the officers sent in by the Governor, and confirmed by the Council, to hold their offices until the general election, in Boise county:

Sheriff, Sumner Pinkham; Probate Judge, Daniel McLaughlin; County Commissioners, John C. Smith, Frank Moore, Henry I. Crow; Auditor, Washington R. Underwood; Treasurer, Charles D. Vajen; Assessor, George Woodman; Justices of the Peace, Bannock precinct, Charles Walker; Centerville, I. H. Johnson, Charles W. Depuy; Placerville, T. H. Stringham, Charles Woodbury Walker; Boise City, Daniel S. Holton; Notaries Public, John Cummins, Henry C. Anderson, Geo. I. Gilbert, Charles J. Fitzgerald; Constables, Idaho City, John G. Howell; Centerville, Edward Thore; District Attorney for the Second Judicial District, George C. Hough.

AN ELECTION DODGE.—Following is a copy of a handbill circulated in Nevada Territory on the day previous to the late election:

TELEGRAPHIC!—Editor of Old Piute—My Dear Sir.—I understand bogus dispatches are in circulation in your Territory, purporting to come from Chase, Conness and Higby. Permit me to say there is nothing in it. We don't care a damn about it, whether you become a State or not. Yours truly,
A. LINCOLN.

N. B.—Bill Seward is with us.—A. L.

EXECUTION IN NEW JERSEY.—Charles H. Brooks, convicted in Burlington county (N. J.), Court of Oyer and Terminer, of the murder of his father, suffered the penalty of his crime in the yard of the Mount Holly jail on Friday, December 11th, in the presence of 700 people. Between eleven and twelve o'clock Sheriff Lippincott, accompanied by a clergyman and several other persons, entered the cell of the doomed man and endeavored to converse with him, but he appeared quite indifferent. After a prayer by the clergyman the prisoner was removed and placed under the gallows. Here he made a brief statement, confessing his guilt and implicating others in the awful crime. He said he was there to suffer for the murder of his father, and that while he acknowledged that he committed the crime, Ridgway (his brother-in-law) ought to be in his place. Ridgway, he asserted, had for more than a year urged him to kill his father, and on the day of the murder, while he (Brooks) was drunk, Ridgway told him to meet "the old man at the corner of the lot and knock him over." He accordingly stationed himself there, and when his father came by knocked him down, killed him and threw his body in the ditch. His statement of the circumstances was substatially the same as the first story he told of it. He said that afterward Ridgway and his mother came to him and persuaded him to deny all knowledge of the murder, and he allowed them to induce him to say on Ridgway's trial that no one had anything to do with it but himself. He was sorry that he had been weak enough to let Ridgway and his mother persuade him to commit the crime; he had never harmed any one else, and never had struck a man in his life, until the blow he struck his father.

AS TO THE GOVERNMENT INTENTION OF TAXING THE MINES.—The Sacramento Bee of the 20th January says: One of our Congressional delegation writes to a friend here, who questioned him concerning the Government's intent to tax the mines, and says:

I do not know with certainty, what the plan of Gen. Beale is, but I shall see it in a few days, as it will be printed at length with the report of Commissioner Edwards. We hear now and then, an expression in favor of raising revenue from the mines by taxation, but these thoughts spring from a general desire to get funds to meet the very extraordinary expenses of the Government imposed by the war, and not from any purpose or wish to make a specialty of the mines in taxation. Miners now pay their income tax the same as people engaged in any other occupation, and this, doubtless, they are willing to do, but no more. To put mining on a more unfavorable basis than any other productive industry, would, it seems to me, be unjust, and, as a Government measure, decidedly impolitic, for its tendency would be to curtail a product more needed now than any other. But I have seen or heard no specific plan for taxing the precious metal mines.

THE number of letters mailed at the San Francisco Post-Office in 1861 was 682,019; in 1863, 907,596. Increase, 38 per cent.

The number of newspapers forwarded in 1861 was 677,126, in 1863, 1,389,702. Increase, 105 per cent.

The registered letters sent in 1861 numbered 3,484; in 1863 they were 8,507. Increase, 144 per cent.

The number of newspapers received in 1861 was 1,752,960; in 1863, 2,860,433. Increase 63 per cent.

For the fourth quarter of 1861, the number of stamps sold was 385.043, and of envelops 517,083, amounting in value together to $35-920,45. For the fourth quarter of 1863, the stamps sold were 769,545, and the envelops 713,718, amounting together in value to $50-500. Increase, $14,579,74.

The estimated number of people visiting the Postoffice daily, is 16,900.

AS CHARLES SUMNER's cases of books were lately being carried to his rooms at Washington, one of the packages broke, and there was a grand chaos of law religion, romance and poetry. A Holy Bible straddled Kent's Commentaries; somebody on International Law got mixed up with Hervey's Meditations; the jaws of Statutes at Large swallowed up the Psalms of David; Tom Jones, the rascal, disfigured Shakspeare's frontispiece; Byron and Blackstone reached the pavement at the simultaneously; the Life of A. Lincoln was lost in the Anatomy of Melancholy, and the Constitution of the United States made a large vacuum between Sumner's Orations and Common Sense.

DEATH OF THE "POUGHKEEPSIE BLACKSMITH.—William H. Van Wagener, known for ten years throughout the United States as the "Poughkeepsie Blacksmith," expired at his residence in this city on Thursday. Mr. Van Wagener was a very popular speaker, and for years made himself felt in the political field and in the advocacy of total abstinence. His stentorian voice has been heard during the past 23 years in almost every place of note in the Atlantic States, and to his forcible and purely natural eloquence can be attributed the salvation of many a poor soul that was tottering on its way down the road to perdition.—[Poughkeepsie Press.

EXCITING TIMES AT DENVER CITY.—A man named Kittery shot a soldier named Duffield through the window of a house of evil repute, in Denver, on the 27th of Dec., the soldier at the time being intoxicated, and bad broken the window. A large crowd soon gathered about the premises turpentine was freely poured about the chebang, and in a few minutes everything was a sheet of flame. They then proceeded to a dance-house near by and burned it to ashes. Nothing was allowed to be taken out or saved, except a few trunks that belonged to the wretched girls who were inmates of the dwelling. The murderer was confined in the guard-house, where a large and excited mob of citizens and soldiers were collecting, when some one went to the church and called out Col. Chivington who, until then, was ignorant of the excitement. The Colonel, looking very good naturedly, advanced through the crowd to the steps of the guard-house and addressed them in the following sensible language:

"Fellow-Citizens and Soldiers: Two wrongs never can make one right. A man, a comrade of some of you, was last night shot down in the prime of life, from a window. The cowardly villain who took this advantage of the man, is now in this building bound hand and foot, heavily ironed. We live in a land of Law—where every man has meted out to him equal and exact justice. It would be just as cowardly for 10 or 20, or all of you men, to take him out from here, bound as he is, to hang him, as it was for him to shoot your comrade from that window. I did not know anything of this excitement until a gentleman called me out of the church just now, else I should have been here much earlier. Now I request you all to go home, let the law take its course, respect yourselves, and do not be guilty of a row here. And to you, soldiers, let me not hear that any one of you has said, "it would be a good thing to take him out and hang him," or, "I should like to see it done," or anything of that kind; for I, tell you, he will meet with the full punishment of his crime, and if you should hang him without a trial, you would be just as guilty of a cowardly murder as he is."

JOHN P. HALE, in answer to the attack of Hon. John Conness, says:

"I was opposed to an improper use of the public money by Democrats when they were in power, and am no less opposed to the same thing now that my political friends are in power. I have been too long in public life to desire to hold on to it a day longer than I can without making concessions to those who would prey on the public treasury, or their confederates."

FAST MEN OF ENGLAND.—When my Prince (King George Fourth) did actually distinguish himself, it was in driving. He drove once, in four hours and a half, from Brighton to Carlton House—56 miles. All the young men of that day were fond of that sport. But the fashion of rapid driving deserted England, and, I believe, trotted over to America. Where are the amusements of our youth? I hear of no gambling now but among the obscure ruffians; of no more boxing but among the lowest rabble.—[Thackeray's Four Georges.

THE BEGGARS "STRIKING."—Among the pensioners "at the corner" there is an elderly lady who has always been contented to receive a five-cent bit. She astonished us yesterday, by returning it with some disdain, exclaiming: "Why, yer honor, don't ye know everything is riz?" As she was evidently on her strike we yielded.

THE Smith family is numerous in Baltimore. There are 652 persons of that name recorded in the city directory just published. The Browns stand next, numbering 297; and the Jones third, numbering 256. The city has 160 churches, 149 stationed ministers, 304 physicians, and 391 commission merchants.

LADIES who make the shopmen show goods, but never purchase, are called, in medical parlance, "counter irritants."

Boise News.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1864.

THE Mill projected by the South Boise Mining and Milling Company, is to be a twenty-stamp steam-mill, with all the latest improvements—the very best that can be had.

WE notice that ditches are being cleaned out, rockers and sluices carried about from place to place, and every bustling preparation made for the commencement of mining in earnest.

MRS. JULIA Dean Hayne and Miss Sallie B. Goodrich, are performing at the Willamette Theater in Portland, under the management of Mr. Waldron. They were to visit the Dalles in a short time, and as the season advances, why not visit Boise?

L. H. D. LANGE, an old California friend arrived here on Sunday last, having left Red Bluff on the 16th of January. He reports a large emigration from the Northern part of California, on their way to these mines, and that many will come by the way of Goose Lake.

FROM GRAND RONDE.—Mr. Ben Barlow came in with a train of pack-animals from La Grand, on Tuesday evening, and reports Grand Ronde Valley free from snow, and feed for animals good. The foot-hills along the Payette are beginning to assume a verdant aspect, and in fact the approach of early Spring is written upon every object along the way.

SMASH.—Some one in attempting to fall a large pine tree in an opposite direction from the residence of J. Marion Moore, on Buena Vista Bar, in the early part of the week, took his degrees on the wrong side of the compass and landed it right across the middle of the house, mashing it down completely. The inmates happened to be in the kitchen at the time, and escaped unhurt.

SHERIFF PINKHAM has returned to Boise after an absence of several months at Lewiston, Portland and San Francisco. He took the Boise delegation to Lewiston, where he dropped them, and took Gov. Wallace to the Bay and started him on his way to Washington, and on his way back picked up the delegation again at Lewiston and brought them home. Pink looks hale and hearty, notwithstanding the gale on the Pacific that came so near sending him and the old steamer Pacific to Davy Jones.

FIREMEN'S BALL.—The ball on Monday night was the largest dancing-party that has been assembled in the city, and the room was most beautifully decorated—everything went off agreeably until about supper-time, when some little disturbance occurred to mar the harmony and good feeling that had until that time characterized the party. The ball went on, however, as if nothing had occurred, and those who came to dance and enjoy themselves, seemed to be getting their money's worth.

COMING TO SEE US.—Hill Beachy, the popular landlord of the Luna House, Lewiston, intends visiting our city early next month. He comes with a view of taking the new hotel being erected on Wall street, at the crossing of Elk creek. Should Mr. and Mrs. Beachey establish themselves in the hotel business in Idaho City, we should almost be persuaded to break up house-keeping and board out. We made their house our home for years in California, and should feel at home again with them for landlord and landlady.

FORREST THEATER.—This spacious well-arranged and well-conducted place of amusement opened on Saturday night for the first time, on which occasion it was crowded full, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather—rain having fallen all day and during the performance. Smoking is entirely prohibited in this theater, so that ladies can come and enjoy the performance without any apprehension of having their lungs inflated and inflamed with the fumes of tobacco. The Pleasant Neighbor, Two Gregories, and Two Bonicastles have been performed during the week, and other plays are in rehearsal and will be produced from time to time.

NEWSPAPERS IN PORTLAND.—We are informed by Mr. Mallory, a printer from Portland recently arrived in this city, that the Oregon Times has ceased to exist; that the Evening Gazette, recently started by Mr. Snyder, has arisen, flourished and sunk to rise no more; a new paper called the Oregon Union, has been started by an association of printers, and that all these changes have occurred within the space of one or two brief months. The Oregonian, like Time in Saxe's "Allegory of Love and Time," "Still tugs at his oar, and keeps steadily on." Our old friend D. C. Ireland, is doing up the "local" for the Oregonian.

LEGISLATIVE.—A portion of the legislative delegation arrived on Saturday evening last, from Lewiston direct. We are indebted to Assemblyman Bodfish for a copy of the Golden Age of the 6th inst., containing the departure of the Solons and Lycurguses from that city, as well as a faithful record of the H. Bs., H. J. Rs., C. J. Rs., &c., of the last week of the session, from which, with the assistance of an interpreter, we ascertain that the bill granting a franchise to the Idaho and California wagon-road company—about the only enterprise before the body calculated to be a real benefit to the people of Boise, Owyhee, Malheur, &c.—was defeated in the Council after passing the House. A bill likewise passed the House to publish the laws of the Territory in the Golden Age and Boise NEWS in order to place them in the hands of people, but was killed in the Council. These, together with the fact that the account sent in by the Boise NEWS for publishing the Governor's Proclamation, the revenue law, &c., upon the positive assurance of Gov. Wallace that they would be paid, with subscription price of twenty copies of the paper furnished members during the session, were rejected, and that the Capital remains at Lewiston, are the more important matters acted upon, which having ascertained, we abandon our investigations, confident that the public—whose servants we are—will excuse us from ciphering any further into the mysteries contained in these intelligent reports, least in our search we ascertain by what authority official salaries can be increased at Territorial expense with the sanction of the executive signature, while it is not competent to pay for printing the laws or to furnish members with copies of papers published among their constituents, &c. We do not desire to make such a discovery, and if we did, its revelation might be unpleasant to those in authority, whom in early life we were taught to respect, and for whom we are constrained to feel a patriotic reverence as the powers that be.

ALTURAS.—It is said that a new county has been created by the legislature, embracing the South Boise country, and that it is called in the bill authorizing its organization—"Alturas." We know men who have spent thousands of dollars and labored for years to induce the California Legislature to divide Sierra county, and call the northern portion Alturas, that will shout for joy when they hear that there is really an Alturas county created in any part of the world, so much are their hearts set on the accomplishment of their desires is this respect,—and yet, it seems to us that after all Alturas, as interpreted by Velazquez, does not convey the idea intended by those who originated the bill. It has generally been understood as having allusion to high mountains, or mountainous country. The definition of the Spanish noun Alturas, as we find it in Seoane and Velazquez, is "heavens," and those lexicographers give as an example the following:—"Dios de las Alturas—God the Lord of the Heavens."

MR. VOORHES called on us on Wednesday last, having just arrived here from the Dalles, and informed us that some four feet of snow fell upon the Blue Mountains as he came over on the Walla Walla and Grand Ronde road, notwithstanding which the stage company were promptly on the ground with their sleds and drags, and when Mr. V. left, had completely mastered it and broken the road through. Some twenty-four head of stage-horses came up onto this end of the route, in charge of the party with whom Mr. Voorhes traveled. The Company told him to assure the people of Boise, that nothing should intervene to prevent the stages from leaving Walla Walla promptly on the 20th, so that there can be but little doubt of the near approach of the pioneer coach to this basin, and after that there seems to be nothing in the way to hinder their regular arrival and departure three times a week. The establishment of post-offices and a tri-weekly mail on this line would be an agreeable surprise to the people.

RUMORS.—There were rumors in Walla Walla, when the legislative delegation left, that the United States had declared war with France; that 1200 Confederate soldiers had deserted Lee's army in one day; and, that a Mr. Lyon, of Albany, N. Y., had been appointed Governor of this Territory. Whether they were more idle reports, or based upon any shadow of authority, we are unable to ascertain.

HON. WM. C. RHEEM, of East Bannock, is sojourning in our City for a season, having accompanied Judge Parks and the Boise delegation up from the Capital for the purpose of attending the District Court, now in session. Mr. Rheem served in the legislative Council during the Winter, and acted as one of counsel for the prosecution of the Magruder murderers.

THANKS to A. G. Turner, Esq. for a copy of the Daily Oregonian of the 6th inst.

FIRST TERM OF THE DIST. COURT.—The District Court met for the first time in Boise County on Tuesday morning last—Hon Samuel C. Parks presiding. The lapse of time since the organization of the county that the people have been without a court having jurisdiction in criminal matters and civil suits involving any considerable amounts, the accumulation of cases, the large number of criminals and persons accused of crime, confined in the jail and at large on bail, all combined to render the occasion one of more than ordinary importance. People crowded into the court-house until it could hold no more, and many were obliged to go away for the want of room even to stand in the aisle; all seemed to feel that a new order of things had been inaugurated, and that henceforth the citizen can feel an assurance of protection to life and property without resorting to the arbitration of knives and pistols.

The first business attended to was the issuing of a venira returnable on Thursday morning, for 36 persons having the qualifications of jurors, from which to impannel a grand and petit jury. The next matter taken up was the examination of the certificates and affidavits of attorneys making application to have their names placed on the roll of attorneys at this bar. The following gentlemen having shown to the Court that they had been admitted in other States and Territories, after taking the oath of allegiance prescribed by statute, were enrolled as members: Geo. C. Hough, J. K. Shaffer, Edward Nugent, Geo. I. Gilbert, H. L. Preston, John Gray, A. Heed, John Cummings, Daniel McLaughlin, Frank Miller, I. N. Smith, R. B. Snelling, Geo. Ainslie, E. D. Holbrook, C. B. Waite, V. S. Anderson, I. S. Hascall, W. C. Rheem W. R. Keithly, R. A. Pierce and J. J. Moreland. Judge Parks stated that as there appeared to be no further business before the Court, he would make a few remarks that he felt it a duty—not only to himself but to the bar and people—to make. His address was happily conceived and impressively delivered, reminding the bar of the intimate relationship that existed between the Court and themselves, and their dependence on each other, expressing a firm belief that all their intercourse would be pleasant; reminding them at the same time, that pettifogging is not practicing law, and that the true lawyer never resorts to tricks and technicalities to gain a case, but allows it to stand or fall upon its real and substantial merits. The substance of the lecture furnished at the request of the bar for publication, will be found in another column. Hon. C. B. Waite responded briefly on behalf of the bar, and Court adjourned for the day.

ON Wednesday morning court met at ten o'clock, called over the civil docket, disposed of such cases as had been compromised or settled by litigants. H.W.O. Margary was examined, took the oath of allegiance, admitted to practice law in all the courts of this Territory, and his name placed on the roll of attorneys.

Hon. Jos. Miller presented satisfactory evidence to the court of his having been admitted elsewhere, took the required oath and had his name placed on the roll.

THE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE.—Much has been said with regard to the oath of allegiance prescribed by the legislature of this Territory for officers, lawyers, &c. to take and subscribe, and many are curious to know what it contains; for the information of such we here present a copy, as administered to the newly appointed officers of this county and all the members of the bar:

THE OATH.

Territory of Idaho, }
County of Boise. } SS.

I ——— do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution and Government of the United States, against all enemies, whether domestic or foreign; and that I will bear true faith, allegiance and loyalty to the same, any ordinance, resolution or law of any State convention, or legislature to the contrary notwithstanding; and further, that I do this with a full determination, pledge and purpose, without any mental reservation or evasion whatever; and further, that I will well and truly perform all the duties which may be required of me by law, so help me God. Sworn and subscribed, &c.

Those who chose to affirm left out the word "swear" in the first line, the words "so help me God" in the last line, and substituted the following, "This I do under the pains and penalties of perjury."

SALT LAKE EXPRESS.—Mr. D. C. Patterson, growing weary of the long delay in waiting for the arrival of the express from Brigham's dominions, started out on Thursday with letters and papers bound for the Lake, where he will hustle up matters a little, and see that they come in more promptly in future.

ELECTIONS.—The general election for Boise county, at which all the offices—from Councilmen to Constable—will be to fill, will take place according to law on the first Monday in September. The election under the city charter for Mayor, Common Council, Marshal, &c. will take place some time in April, so we are informed.

FOUND DEAD.—Between the hours of nine and ten in the forenoon of Monday last, Coroner Crane was called upon to hold an inquest over the body of a man found dead in a ditch in the vicinity of the saw-mill south of the city on Moore's creek. It appears that three parties had left Bear run in the morning for the purpose of prospecting in California gulch, the deceased being behind the other two some distance. The two in crossing Moore's creek flat, saw deceased on another trail some distance above them; they went on to where they had claims on the south bank of the creek and waited some time for their companion, and as he did not come along they started back, and when they arrived at this ditch or cut, found a crowd of men in the act of recovering the lifeless body from the water, of which there was some 18 inches in the place where it lay. The ditch was some five or six feet wide by six or seven deep, and from all appearances the unfortunate man had attempted to jump across, slipped perhaps and fell down on his head which so stunned him that he drowned in the water. Drs. Raymond and Hogg examined the body and found no evidences of violence other than what might reasonably be apprehended where a man had fallen six or seven feet and struck with his head on rocks or ground. The name of the deceased was John Callaghan, a native of Ireland, and according to his own statements made to one of the witnesses, leaves a wife and children in Liverpool, England. There was some testimony with regard to the deceased having had a quarrel the day before his death, with a man named Wilson, who was arrested and an attempt made to connect the circumstances of the quarrel with that of the death, but the probabilities were against such a conclusion as far as we could understand the situation of affairs. The following is the verdict of the Coroner's Jury in the matter:

"We, the Jury, duly impanneled and sworn to inquire into the cause of the death of a man found in the ditch, or cut, on Moore's creek, between Idaho City and the sawmill. do find that deceased is named John Callaghan, was born in Ireland, and was about 35 years of age. We find that he came to his death on the 22d day of February, 1864, by some means unknown to the Jury.

SEEKING THE INSIDE TRACK.—Our exchanges from Northern California state that energetic men are at work for the construction of a road from Red Bluff to the Boise mines. It is proposed to locate it through Shasta valley and by way of the Klamath Lakes. It is insisted that a good stage road can be made, which will greatly save time and the cost of freight. We hardly think so, but doubtless the effort will be made to find a route, competing with that by the Willamette and Columbia River Valleys; if it succeeds, the travel from Northern California and Southern Oregon will leave this region, and unless lively enterprise is manifested, it is possible that the proposed railroad may go off in the Klamath direction. It would be well to consider this matter, before it is too late.—Oregonian.

The above we cut from the Oregonian of the 6th inst. It is high time the people of the Columbia and Willamette were bestirring themselves in the matter of improving roads, and taking measures for cheapening freights and passage on the rivers, for not only are the statements which the Oregonian doubts true, but there are at least two other feasible routes into California to the east of the one referred to, and companies are formed at each end of the line for the purpose of building wagon-roads; and in the meantime, we have it from positive authority, that pack-trains loaded with groceries will be on the way here from Red Bluff direct, by the first of March, and droves of cattle and sheep will leave the Sacramento Valley about the same time, and come by the way of Pit river, Goose Lake and the Malheur, under the guidance of Mr. Dye, who traveled the route with stock last season and knows what it is. Large parties of prospectors are also forming in that country for the purpose of prospecting thoroughly the district of country lying between Klamath and Eagle Lakes, and south of the head waters of the Owyhee and Malheur.

That the whole country between the Snake and Sacramento rivers will ere long be settled with a mining population, is not at all improbable. With these facts standing out so prominently as a warning, we hope those who have hitherto been gate-keepers, as it were, to the mines of Idaho will begin to see the necessity of relaxing to some extent, the iron grasp in which this people are held, and extend to them at least some consideration as a population above the condition of slaves.

Married,

At the Toll Gate, below this City, on Tuesday evening, 23d inst., by Charles Walker Esq., Mr. America Spior to Mrs. Melissa House.

FUN.—Some of the boys about town had their own fun on Thursday evening. One of their number being of rather small statue and smooth faced, was provided with a dress and hood, and gallanted about town, putting shop-keepers to a deal of trouble showing calicoes, bonnets, ribbons, &c., none of which exactly suited, but a promise was left to return and purchase in the morning. All went on satisfactorily until they visited the theater where were eyes too keen to be deceived. A fish-hook was fastened into the hood by some mischievous rascal, and the imposition exposed by uncovering the impostor's head—which, divested of its ribbons and tinsel fixens, enabled many to recognize one of their acquaintances in the person of the strange lady, whose beau was compelled to hurry her out of the crowd to prevent a scene which would evidently ensued.

THE Grand Jury was completed and sworn yesterday morning. The Judge addressed them in a plain and forcible speech, instructing them in their duties as the first body of the kind that has ever been organized in the Second Judicial district, and reminding them that they were setting a precedent that would be potent either for good or evil for a long time to come.

HOW ABANDONED.—A member of the Grand Jury now in session, had the temerity to assert in open court, under the solemn sanction of his oath, that he had no confidence in what he read in the newspapers. Surely that man is lost. Will he not hang the honest man, and let the rogues go free? Or if he punish crime on any account, it will be because,

"His passion for absurdity's so strong,
He cannot bear a rival in the wrong."

SOME half dozen or more workmen were engaged in repairing the ditch in front of our office yesterday, preparatory to turning in water, and we may reasonably expect the top of the hill to be washed off in a short time, as but little time or water will be allowed to run to waste when the thing once fairly begins.

"The Harp of Altenberg" was produced for the first time in this city at the Temple Theater on Thursday evening—Mrs. Van Houten and J. B. Smith sustaining the principal characters. Business prevented our attendance, but we learn that the performance was of a superior order.

Judge Parks' Address to the Bar.

The following is only the substance of the remarks of his Honor, Judge Parks, at the opening of Court for the first time in Boise Basin, on Tuesday last, and is furnished us for publication at the earnest request of members of the bar:

GENTLEMEN OF THE BAR,—

Before proceeding with the regular business of the term, I owe it to myself, to you and to the people of this county, to make a few remarks.

The position of Judge of the Second Judicial district, was not sought for by me. In saying this I do not mean that the position is not an honorable one. On the the contrary, it is one of which an abler man than I am might well be proud. But it was my desire and expectation, and I believe it was yours, that the Chief Justice of this Territory should be assigned to this district. There is in this part of the Territory far more population and legal business than in either of the other districts. There are many cases pending here involving character, liberty and life. There are others upon which depend large pecuniary interests. It is doubtful whether any court in so new a country ever needed more ability, integrity and experience.

This district properly belongs to Judge Edgerton, not only from his position as Chief Justice, but from his high moral and official character, and his large experience. But circumstances rendered it inconvenient, if not impossible, for him to be here; while the pressure of business in your court, the crowded state of your jail, and the natural impatience of your people, made it necessary that a court should be held at as early a day as possible. Under these circumstances, Gov. Wallace assigned this district to me. I consented to the arrangement reluctantly and with a deep sense of the responsibility it devolved upon me. To some, and perhaps to a considerable extent, the property, the liberty and the lives of many men depend upon my action as Judge of this court. I do not think that any Judge can always decide aright. I know that I cannot. All that I can promise is, that to the best of my ability I will discharge the duties incumbent upon me, and by so doing strive to secure the confidence of the bar and the people. And from my acquaintance for some months past with some of your number, and the cordial greeting you all extended to me on my arrival among you, and the uniform courtesy with which you have treated me since, I feel confident that I shall have your assistance in the effort to make this court a means of suppressing disorder and wrong, and promoting good morals, harmony and peace.

Whatever popular prejudice there may be against the profession of the law, it is a useful and noble one,—calculated, when properly pursued, to expand and elevate the mind and heart, and has furnished many of the loftiest intellects and purest characters that have adorned the history of our race. Associated in fraternal relations with the members of such a profession here, I cannot doubt that I shall find them in the conduct of the business of this court devoted to the real and substantial interests of their clients, and not to technicalities and forms,—relying for success not upon artifice and fraud, but upon professional knowledge and skill,—laboring not to embarrass, but to assist the court.

Amid the difficulty and embarrassments of an untried position, of an unfamiliar practice, and of heavy responsibility,—I rely for success much upon your assistance and generosity. In some degree my reputation depends upon the result of this court. If it shall not succeed, I am sure the fault will not be yours. Hoping that it may not fail, and that the just expectations of the community may not be disappointed, I enter upon the discharge of the duties of the office assigned me.

A COMPOUND NATURE.—The following passage occurs in Professor Shedd's address before the Massachusetts Colonization Society. He is speaking of Webster:

"The tropical eye, when found in conjunction with Caucasian features, is indicative of a very remarkable organization. It shows that tremulous sensibilities are reposing upon a base of logic. No one could fix his gaze for a moment up that great Northern statesman without perceiving that this rare combination was the physical substrata of what he was and what he did. That deep, black iris, cinctured in a pearl-white sclerotic, and, more than all, that fervid, torrid glance and gleam, were the exponents and expression of a tropical nature; while the thorough-bred Saxonism of all the rest of the physical structure indicated the calm and massive strength that underlay and supported all the passion and all the fire. It was the union of two great human types in a single personality. It was the whole torrid zone upheld in the temperate."

ANOTHER MINING COMPANY.—The "Oregon Gold and Silver Mining Company" was incorporated at Salem, on the 8th inst., by W. S. Ladd, Geo. H. Jones, Cyrus A. Reed, S. Coffin and J. H. Mitchell. The articles of incorporation limit its duration to three hundred years. Capital stock $587,500; shares $250 each. Principal office in Portland. Business principally on the Santiam, but generally in the State of Oregon, and Territories of Idaho and Washington.

REMARKABLE RUN AT BILLIARDS.—M. T. Humphrey, an amateur billiard player of Buffalo, N. Y., recently played a match of 1,000 points on a six-pocket table. The game terminated in favor of Humphrey by 763 points, in 34 innings, his average being nearly 30; time three hours and five minutes. Humphrey made the following runs: 53, 98, 73, 79, 94, 67, 81, 56, 57, 56. Speaking of this brilliant performance, the Express says: "Such a succession of heavy runs was never before witnessed in any match."

A DIFFERENCE of one-half has been made [illegible] of the traveler over the new road [illegible] to Dalles, by the Columbia [illegible] pany.

HEAVY SUITS.—Two important cases are now pending before the Court of Claims in Washington. One of them is the question of validity of the "acceptance" granted by Secretary Floyd to Russell, Majors & Wadden. The amount involved is about $700,000. The other case, involving a similar amount, is that of the legal representatives of R. W. Meade, Commander of the receiving ship North Carolina—said represetatives including Captain Meade, of the Navy, and General G. G. Meade, Commander of the Army of the Potomac.

A PRINTER named Winn, who died at Rochester, England, recently, was heard to mutter to himself a few moments before his death: "I am on my last stickful; I am coming to a paragraph, and I suppose I'll have to wait for old Death to put in a period."

A GENTLEMAN advertises in an English paper, under the head of "Miracle," that, "free from any sectarian prejudices," he is "in possession of the Winking Madonna, with the remarkable phenomena which created such an extraordinary sensation in Italy!"

KING Victor Emanuel, on the night of his arrival at Naples, went to the Theater San Carlos, which was splendidly illuminated, and his entrance was the signal for an immense outburst of applause, which was repeated after the national hymn had been played and on his leaving. Many of the principal streets were illuminated.

A NEW pass through the Andes has been discovered to the southward of the city of Mendoza, in the same latitude as Buenos Ayres. It is practicable for a wheeled vehicle, and will facilitate the traffic between the Atlantic and Pacific.

IT is asserted that in Mayence, where the annual consumption of wine is 360 bottles per adult, "gout, delirum tremens and liver complaints are quite unknown."

A NEW BELL, weighing 1,000 pounds, has recently been purchased at West Troy (N. Y.), for the cathedral at Portland (Oregon).

DURING the year 1863, the Pacific Mail Steamship Company carried away in shipments from San Francisco to New York, England and Panama, $41,569,783,67.
